Anna B. Lewis

Miss Lewis

Lubricating these units with tact and precision is the function of a very important cog in Central's industry—our dean, Anna B. Lewis.

To advise as to school programs and life vocations, to plan discussions on school conduct and adjustment, the Guidance Committee has this year interviewed more than half the student body—an essential phase of our school mechanism.

BUSY BY DAY

From 8 a. m. till 4 p. m., every week day 1,951 students, 63 teachers and 10 janitors cram the portals of Central High, the most used building in Fort Wayne. Added to this huge horde, another group enters on Saturday mornings to hold music festivals, civil service examinations, Latin contests, County Teachers' Institutes, and Boy and Girl Scout Courts of Honor.

BUSY BY NIGHT

At 3:45 in come the Indiana University Extension students, followed soon after by the mass of Red Cross and Government classes, and the Vocational Evening classes: some 1,841 students who burn the "midnight oil."

TRADES AND INDUSTRIES AT CENTRAL

By ITALO BRAGALONE, BETTY LYONS, and BETTY BITNER

Director of the Industrial Arts in the public schools of this city, George H. Russell is the genial helper and friend of the men and boys associated with industrial arts. It has been largely through his efforts and those of his competent staff that Central High School is our leading technical school.

This year commences the new plan between the future employer and the industrial students of Central High School. This plan, inaugurated by Mr. Russell, endeavors to bring a closer understanding between the employer and the employee as to the type of preparation which industry will demand. This will enable each student to know the type of work for which he is best suited before he is graduated from high school, thus eliminating much wasted time and effort on the part of both employer and employee.

Hardly a person can visit any of the shops at Central without noticing the air of industry and enthusiasm that prevails. Students in the shops catch the spirit and are realizing the need of more and better training.

GENERAL COURSE

The boys are introduced into the various shops by means of a general course, consisting of periods of six weeks in each of the different shops. The six trades are drafting, machine shops, auto, electrical, pattern-foundry, and benchwork. By taking this course first, each boy is able to make his choice of a shop which he will consider his trade. In addition to the six shops listed, there are the print shop and the wood-turning shop.

G. H. RUSSELL

Drafting ranks very high not only in our industrial arts work at Central but in the life of any boy who follows a mechanical or industrial career. We have two large well equipped drafting rooms that furnish about 300 boys with the necessary instruments and equipment in machine drawing and design and architectural drafting.

About 200 boys study the machinist trade at Central. The machine shop is equipped not only with all the necessary machine tools but also with facilities for work in sheet-metal and forging. Even though the time spent in this shop is not sufficient to enable a boy to acquire a great deal of skill, the amount of knowledge he receives and the attitude for the work he develops will help him in his work as a machinist.

The arts shop is located in the annex across the alley from the main building. Here 130 future auto and aeronautics mechanics are receiving training. Math and physics are required of these boys who are trained in the maintenance of internal-combustion engines.

Much of the equipment used in this training is the property of the United States Army and has been loaned to the school. Boys in this shop not only have the opportunity of working on various types of aeroplane engines, but are taught much of flight problems and navigation.

In the same building is the electrical shop where 180 boys are receiving theoretical and practical knowledge of electricity. Light and power circuits, alternating and direct currents, power distributions and manufacture are but a few phases of electricity with which our future Edisons and Marconis become acquainted.

In the shop located in the south end of the basement of the main building, would-be printers have an opportunity to learn something about the trade. Typesetting, zinc etchings, engraving, cutting and figuring costs are some of the problems that must be taught to the boys studying printing. While the number of boys receiving training in this shop is not so large as in some of the other shops, the same spirit of industry and craftsmanship prevails.

The crafts that require wood-working as a basis have their shop in what used to be the Craig Biscuit Building, now the School Warehouse, a building on Douglas Street just west of the School Administration Building. In this building these shops are located: bench work, wood turning, pattern-foundry, and the advanced cabinet work.

In the first semester of the woodworking course, boys are trained in the use of hand tools needed in that craft. The boys make hundreds of articles of furniture that can be used at home. To round out this course, boys usually elect a second semester on the wood lathe. Although the wood lathe is not generally used in industry today, it is still taught for those boys who have wood lathes at home or for use in the pattern shop.

Wood pattern making and advanced cabinet work are carried in a well equipped shop in the south end of the Craig Building. Much furniture and equipment for the school is made by machinery in this shop.

Patterns for various machines are made here and sent to a local commercial foundry where they are cast. They are then taken to the machine shop where they are machined and finished. In the Craig building is a non-ferrous foundry where the boys take patterns they have made and make castings from them.

In all the various shop activities the boys not only get information and training regarding the trade they have taken up, but they realize the dignity and satisfaction of producing things with their own hands.

COMMERCIAL STUDIES

Girls as well as boys have vocations to follow, mainly the commercial and home economics courses. One of the largest departments, the Commercial, has 800 students enrolled under the supervision of four teachers. In the freshman year, junior business training is offered followed the next year by bookkeeping, a complex form of mathematics used in keeping accounts and making business forms.

Any student who wishes to become a secretary chooses shorthand and typing offered for two years, the last semester of shorthand being devoted to learning to operate dictaphones, ediphones, adding machines, comptometers, and calculators. Many students become so expert in this work that they secure good positions as soon as they are graduated.

Additional studies may be taken with the major course: salesmanship, business English, and commercial geography.

HOME MANAGEMENT

Home Economics appeals to 250 girls at Central. In the first semester, the general clothing course, the girls learn to select proper clothing, practical economical materials, and remodel clothes as well as to make children's dresses.

This course is followed by the general foods course which includes the planning, preparation, and serving of meals. How to market and balance the budget are also included.

The study of becoming colors and designs and advanced training on silk and rayon materials is the work of the third semester. Home Ec. 4 presents more difficult problems of home management; the girls buy food, plan the work and prepare the meals. The care of the sick and of babies is next emphasized; diets are planned and proper care of the patient is studied.

Selection and making of furnishings and furniture according to the suitability, enjoyment, and comfort of the family is the purpose of Home Ec. 5.

The last study in the course of Home Economics is the proper choosing of accessories and traveling etiquette.

ART TRAINING

Art-minded students may further their talent by having a choice of many different phases in art, such as craft and clay for freshmen; design and commercial for sophomores; costume design and cast and life for juniors; and painting and interior decorating for seniors.

The freshmen make various articles of clay, plaques of plaster paris, and batiks on silk and cotton materials. Silver bracelets, leather zipper purses, wallets, and belts are made by the artistically-inclined students.

Designs of many different phases of life, both realistic and modernistic, are painted or charcoal drawings are made by the sophomores. Hundreds of posters and placards are made for the various activities throughout the school.

In the third year, students who have a taste for attractive costumes may design various kinds of clothes, suitable for every occasion. Cast and life is studied by those who intend to be sculptors for the art courses are adapted to the students as much as possible.

Would-be architects find pleasure in the last year of art when they make a complete study of the building of houses and landscaping. Plans are made for the exterior and finally the interior is completely designed.

Art students at Central are called upon often to aid in decorations for school activities. They design elaborate scenery for the Commencement Ritual and make the backgrounds for the Vod-Vil and Operetta.

THREE HUNDRED MASTER WORKMEN

Remember when we were freshmen? That party, our very first, was a success—until we ran out of refreshments. Yet with the help of our president, Herschel O'Shaughnessey, vice-president, Marietta Enderle, secretary-treasurer, Thelma Springer, and our social council, Marian Cabler, Anne Tucker, Robert Reese, Helen Hoffman, and Bill Spackman we carried it off with at least the finesse of sophomores. Of course we were assisted by our advisors, Miss Marian Ingham and Mr. Robert Dornte. Our extra-curricular life, as a class, was concluded with this one venture into society. Thus we wound up our green year and took on the dignity of sophomores.

When we were sophomores, we waded much deeper into the stream of extra-curricular activities, though as a class, we were more or less passive. The course of our social year ran smoothly under the guidance of Jeff Michell, president, Anne Tucker, vice-president, Helen Ashley, secretary-treasurer, and the council, Betty Bitner, Marian Cabler, Catherine McKay, Betty Raquet, Bill Spackman, and Robert Reese. We asked Miss Hawkins and Mr. Turpin to oversee our year's work, and they aided in making it a happy one.

Suddenly we found ourselves upperclassmen and with becoming dignity, elected Robert Reese, president, Ed O'Rourke, vice-president, Betty Bitner, secretary-treasurer, and as social council Bill Spackman, Marian Cabler, Jeff Michell, Jane Masursky, and Bob Kaag. Miss Tonkel and Mr. Wyatt were chosen advisors. Our ability as salesmen really came to the fore, as we sold, in the first cookie sale of Central, 759 dozens of "bigger, better, butterscotch cookies." This sale was to finance the greatest social event of our high school careers—the Junior Prom.

How we toiled to make those grapes and vines to transform the boys' gym into a veritable vineyard. It was a most fitting place, too, for stately Dorothy Staley, 1936 prom queen, to crown our diminutive blonde, Betty Bitner, the new queen.

The following September, proudly answering to the title "seniors", we again chose Miss Tonkel and Mr. Wyatt, sponsors, and Jeff Michell, who had been sophomore president again became chief executive. Bob Reese was elected vice-president, Genevieve Boerger, secretary-treasurer, and our social council was Jeanne Fox, Herschel O'Shaughnessey, Betty Bitner, Betty Fuller, Ed O'Rourke, Mary Farrell, and Mary Hattersley. Again we sold those popular "butterscotch cookies." In fact we sold 1,092 dozen of them. Franklin Wallace showed super-salesmanship when he became champion by bringing in orders for seventy-four dozen.

We excel in salesmanship, but by no means are we limited to that. Alta Mae Bolinger, Bob Kaag, Betty Fuller and the other seniors in the senior play cast demonstrated, very ably, our dramatic ability. In the production "The Goose Hangs High" the class again achieved a dramatic as well as financial triumph.

February 19th brought the Senior Caldron Vodvil. This proved to be another magnificent production, a result of hard work on the part of the senior class and its advisors.

We all awaited with "bated breath" the announcement of best boy and girl citizens and were little surprised but greatly pleased when Betty Bitner and Herschel O'Shaughnessey were chosen.

Then came the day when we seniors "let down our hair" for a good time, "Kid Day", of course. Short pants and dresses, lollipops and hair ribbons certainly transformed old age into youth. We hardly recognized our classmates; in fact we felt like the shy little freshmen that we were three years before.

After four years of work and play we don our caps and gowns for Recognition Day, June 3. The "master workers" are recognized for their individual skill and ability in their chosen fields and activities.

The grey caps and gowns give our seniors a look of distinction as we proudly march to the Emboyd for Baccalaureate services. Reverend Howard J. Brown of the Forest Park Church delivers the address to the parents and friends of the "three-hundred". After the services we assemble at the east door of our Alma Mater for a picture. A feeling of sadness prevails over the usually "happy-go-lucky" seniors as we realize that this will probably be our last group picture.

The Senior banquet sponsored by the Parent Teachers Association is held at the Wayne Street Methodist Episcopal Church, June 6.

Our senior activities are brought to a close with the Commencement Dance in the boys' gymnasium, June 9, with Jeanne Fox and Phyllis Criswell as co-chairmen.

VALEDICTORIAN AND SALUTATORIAN

The highest honor in scholarship anyone can receive in his senior year is to be chosen as Valedictorian or Salutatorian. This year the honors were accorded to Mary Farrell as Valedictorian and Doris Doust as Salutatorian. Ranking highest in a class of 300 students is a worthy attainment of which both girls may be proud.

FOUR-YEAR HONOR ROLL

Mary Farrell	95.76
Doris Doust	94.81
Jean Bergquist	94.50
Marian Cabler	93.77
Marie Rittenhouse	92.58
Robert Reese	92.47
Donald Sollenberger	92.45
Kathryn Simon	91.68
Salem Shaheen	91.67
Marjorie Burns	91.35
John Reiling	90.58
Betty Hillman	90.44
John Ember	90.30
Catherine McKay	90.00
Margaret Foester	95.64

(Margaret is not eligible for the place of salutatorian because she has been at Central only one year).

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Election into National Honor Society by the votes of the faculty on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, and service is the aim of all seniors.

"THE GOOSE HANGS HIGH"

Once more, a talented group of aspiring dramatists, added to the triumphs on the Central High School stage. Once more, Miss Margery Suter directed a play which lived up to her reputation for turning out the finest of presentations in this fascinating art.

With poise and versatility, the class of 1938 presented an outstanding performance of Lewis Beach's "The Goose Hangs High".

Those who trod the boards in this brilliant production will not be soon forgotten. Bob Kaag, taking a leading role as Bernard Ingall, assumed the worries of the father of a family, who has the courage to defy Elliot Kimberley, the city councilman, portrayed by Maurice Snyder.

Opposite Kaag, the self-sacrificing mother, Eunice Ingalls, was characterized by Alta Mae Bolinger. The twins upon whom the mother lavishes much of her attention, and who captivate the audience with their college antics, were played by Betty Lyons and Byron Leeth.

Betty Fuller won the audience in the stellar role of Mrs. Bradley, the grandmother, who, characteristic of her generation, finds it hard to keep up with the speed of the moderns.

Providing the heart interest were Marian Cabler as Janet Carrall and Jeff Michell as Jim Ingalls. Completing the family ties were Ann Krugh as Aunt Julia Murdock; and Harry Prange as Cousin Ronnie. The supporting cast was admirable with Leroy Gerke, Noll Derby, a family friend; Kenneth Fletter, Les Day, a social climber; and Jeanne Davenport, the maid.

The play, a typical American production, stirred the heart of every person who remembered experiencing like scenes in his own home. Must a father sacrifice his self respect so that his children might finish college? Could he save that respect, or must he give in to the grasping selfishness of current political greed?—Testy old Grandma Bradley saves the day, and the play ends happily.

Besides the very capable stage crew, the two prompters, Jeanne Davenport and Dolores O'Connor, aided greatly in the success.

OUR COMMENCEMENT RITUAL

By JOHN REILING

For the tenth successive year Central continues her practice of prefacing the commencement speaker by a dramatic presentation of the theme of the day.

"That Lighteth Every Man," the masque to be presented at the Commencement, written by Mrs. Vera Lane, head of the English department of Central, emphasizes the industrial arts department peculiar to Central. The theme of the masque is the rise of man.

The play begins as life is first being invoked upon the earth. The sun-god is at first enraged at the earth because the earth does not seem to need him. This feeling soon dies, and the sun becomes proud of his power to bring forth life upon the earth. The god of lightning vows to destroy everything the sun-god produces. The latter prophesies that man will wrest lightning's secret from him and harness his powers until he is man's servant.

Ages pass, plants and animals are domesticated, pottery is fashioned, science is born, and man seeks new fields to conquer.

Man's victory over the god of lightning is complete; but man, the thinker, is not satisfied. He has conquered the physical world; he now turns his attention toward the social world. Everywhere are sent welfare workers, reaching and exploring new ways of directing the youth of the world into the proper channels.

At this point there enter into the play two young boys. One represents juvenile delinquency, and is proud of it, the type to whom the welfare worker applies his social technique. The worker questions the lad and, from his answers, learns that the boy needs guidance, to know about vocational opportunities, and better living conditions.

The other lad who represents constructive youth sees what takes place and wishes to know what he can do about juvenile delinquency. The worker tells him that he can give social betterment by perfecting the machine and its management, or with laws for social discipline; or by education through the schools. In so doing he will learn three great principles: collective discipline, each for the betterment of all; collective efficency, skill in one's own work; and collective responsibility, each responsible for his own life.

DR. JAMES S. THOMAS

Through the boys' queries we see the light, "The true light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world."

The speaker, Dr. James S. Thomas, realizing the students' need of a healthy attitude towards life as well as a knowledge of facts, then discusses "A Youthful Philosophy for Youthful People."

Dr. Thomas knows youth well, for he has been a college professor, dean, and president, as well as a state high school inspector. He is now president of the Chrysler Institute of Engineering at Detroit, and head of the Clarkson College of Technology at Pottsdam, N. Y.

CLASSES

JUNIOR OFFICERS

SKILLED LABORERS

Juniors! That's what we are and believe us, we love it! We have been looking forward to being juniors for a long time, and now that we are proud possessors of that name, the thought of our soon leaving Central haunts us, and we would do anything to be a "Freshie" once again.

Three years ago, believe it or not—our ire was aroused when we were called "Freshies". We wanted to be as dignified and sophisticated as the upper classmen, but we soon discovered that we had to wait in line for our turn to come. And how we yearned for the years to roll into the future!

Since no class officers were chosen in our freshman year, the first class election was held in the fall of '36. As commanders-in-chief of our tribe we chose Charles Rothschild, president; Kenneth Rice, vice-president and Theodora Collias, secretary-treasurer. The social council was composed of Jean Junk, Richard Koenig, Harrison

Second row—I. Baumgardner, C. Bear, G. Berghoff, M. Beugnot, L. Biggs, M. Bircheff, W. Black, W. Bliss, D. Blossom, J. Bond, C. Boneff, R. Bradtmiller, I. Bragalone, B. Breininger, L. Brower, C. Browning.

Third row—R. Buchan, B. Buchanan, W. Buckmaster, B. Bultemeier, A. Bultemeyer, G. Burton, I. Burton, I. Byrd, L. Carey, I. Carter, L. Chamberlin, E. A. Charlton, B. Chilcote, R. Clancy, E. Coffey, T. Collias.

Fourth row—F. Cooper, J. Cox, J. P. Crosbie, N. Cunningham, R. Cunningham, B. Curtis, A. Davice, D. Deady, G. Dean, M. Deatrick, T. DeHaven, R. DePrey, O. Derloshon, M. Dingman, B. Doehrman, J. Doswell.

Fifth row—L. Drury, R. C. Duell, M. Eichel, B. Emerson, N. Exner, E. Falk, R. Fearneyhough, B. Felts, M. Fiedler, L. Fletter, M. Frazier, G. Freigy, J. Freigy, M. Gardner, M. Gause, R. Gebfert.

Richardson, Robert Cross, and Mary Frances Lauer.

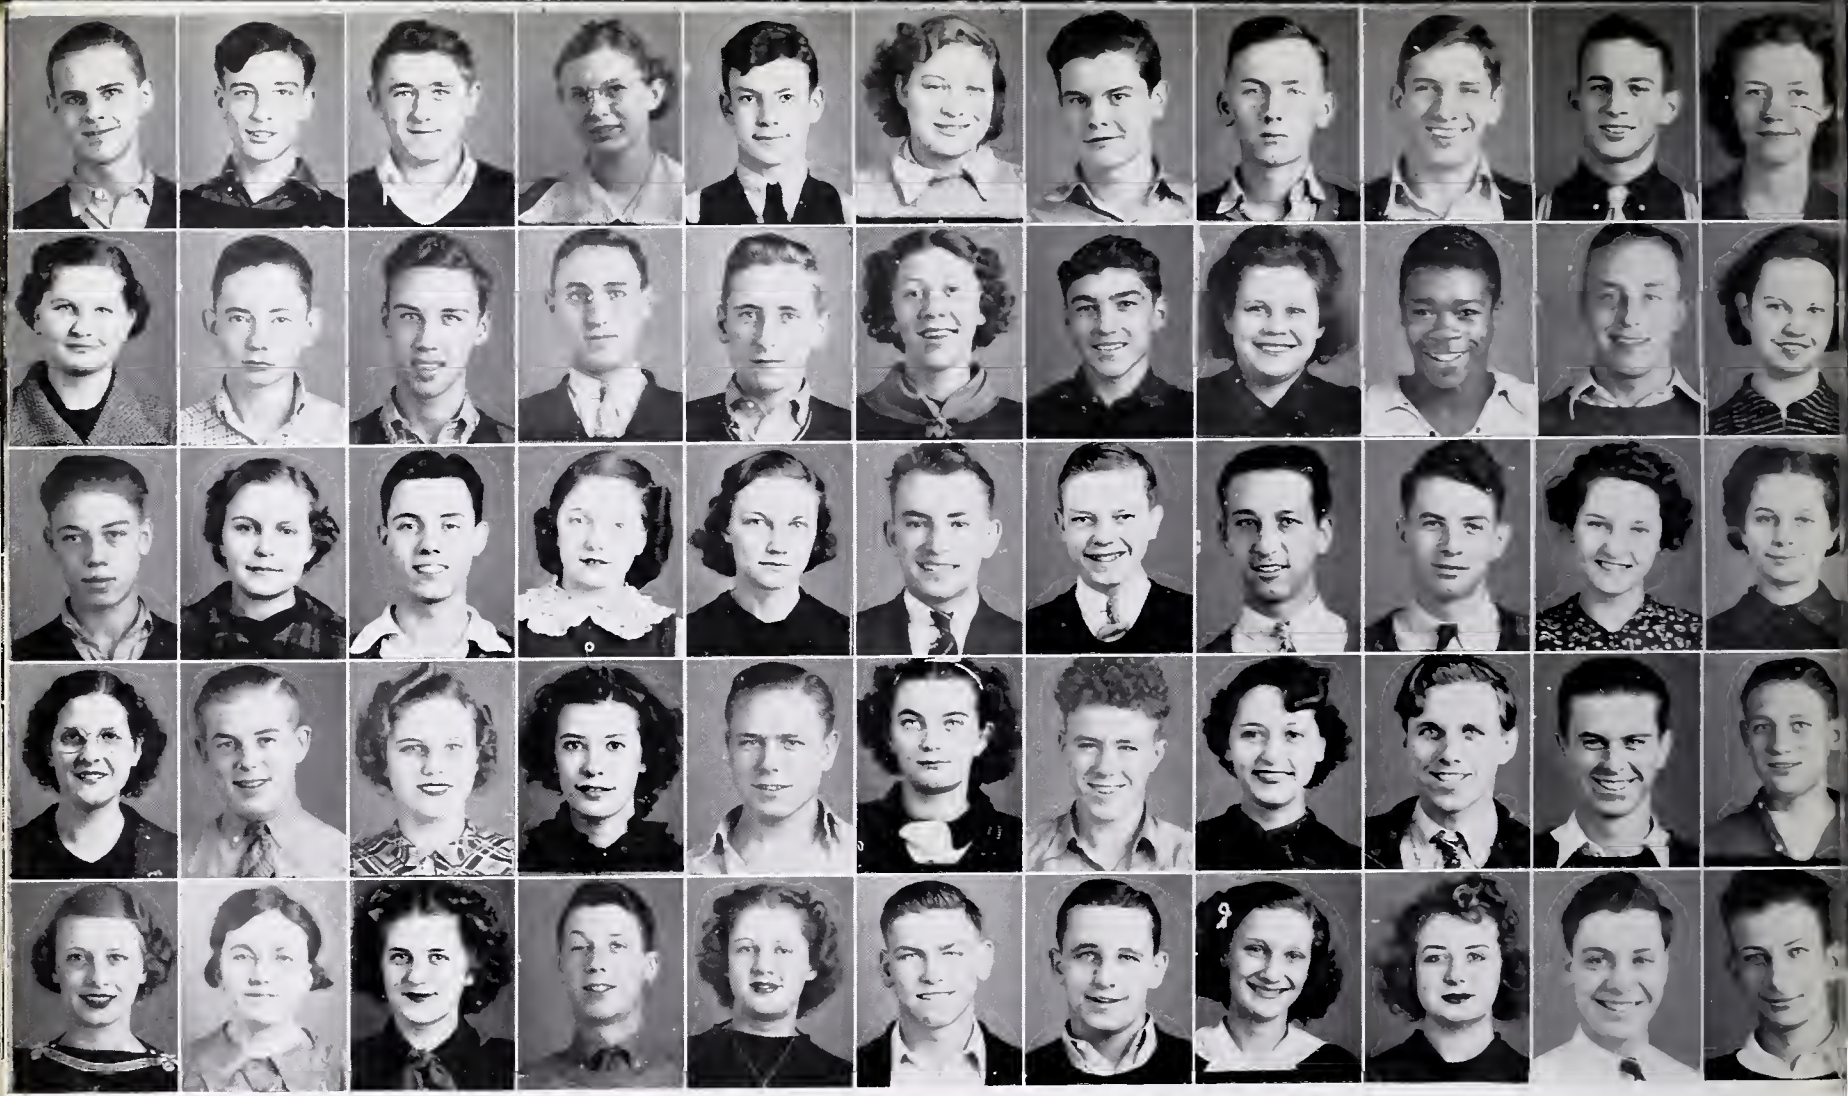
With the aid of the class advisors, Miss McKinnie and Mr. Aldred, our social activities functioned most effectively.

Our first class affair, a get-acquainted party, was held on December 11, 1936. The girls' gymnasium was gay with the traditional Yuletide colors and decorations when the evening's entertainment got under way. It was great fun as well as a successful party.

On April 11, the social affair was held in the form of a skating party at Bell's Rink. Here everyone including our class advisor, Miss McKinnie, exhibited her talents as a skater.

To lead us through the ups and downs of our Junior year we chose Raymond Heine, president; Charles Rothschild, vice-president; Theodora Collias, secretary-treasurer. Doris Horn, Gladys Hunt, Russell Buchan, Herbert Knothe, Lois Brower and Betty Payton comprised the social council. Miss Hawkins and Mr. Cleaver were chosen class advisors.

Many of our tribe have followed the long and hard road—the one that leads to honor. Juniors who succeeded in making the honor roll roster the first semester are Eldon Baker, George Bauermeister, Mary Lou Berkey, Byron Breininger, Richard Chauncy, George Dean, Robert Duell, Clifford Dunten, Bruce Emerson, Burdella Felts, Mary Frazier, Martha Gause, Donald Gebhard, Frances Graft, Daniel Hill, Doris Horn, Betty Ann Klaehn, Mary Frances Lauer, Anita Leonard, Vivian Martin, Lester Mercia, Elda Mertz, Russell Miller, Jeanne Patrick, Charles Rothschild, William Schmidt, William Schmieman, Lena Mae Stephens, Ralph Van Osdale, Fred Wolf, Agnes Yarnelle, Paul Yentes, Leona Zweig.



What "Mendy" would have done without Kenneth Rice, Duke Richardson, Bill Hanley, and Thompson Gaines at the Sectional Tourney—we don't know, but we do know that these boys know their basketball! Watch them next year!

Not to be outdone by the boys, Sis Arnold, Helen Walda, Jean Junk, Olympia Derloshon, Lena Mae Stephens, Shirley Stonecipher, Jo Freigy, Bernadette Shearer, Lorraine Storms, Billie Mae Tate, and Frances Walters are among the many junior girls who have gone out for afterschool sports.

In Central's band and orchestra we find Sara Stettler, Eldon Baker, Barbara Curtis, Betty Payton, Marian Menze, and Ralston Fearneyhough. On the Spotlight staff are Charles Laymon, Leona Zweig, Elda Mertz, and George Koorsen. Jeanne Patrick, Charles Rothschild, Jo Freigy, Alberta Bultemeyer, Mary Przebindowski and Iona Carter are members of the Caldron staff.

Juniors who have distinguished themselves in the public speaking department are: Robert Duell, Melva O'Shaughnessey, Raymond Heine, Jeanette Kellogg, and Lois Brower.

The "Bunny Frolic", our first social event, was held April 7, a tea dance in the girls' gym. During the intermission of music furnished by Deb Giant and his Sophisticated Swingsters, a bunny hunt was featured.

The "Junior Prom", our last social event held May 14, vies with senior dances and programs for popularity as it is one of the most anticipated events of the entire spring season. Sarah Stettler chosen prom queen by popular vote by her fellow classmates, was crowned by Raymond Heine, 1938, class president.

The theme of the Junior Prom was inspired by the poem "Silver" by Walter Le la Mare, which depicts a silvery night. Just so was the Junior Prom. The poem describes a dark night lighted only by the moon which casts a silvery light over everything.

This quiet, mysterious, unnatural night which one may picture in the mind appears really to be a "Magic Night" which all were destined to see on the eventful night of May 14 when a silver queen reigned over the "Magic Night".

There has been no general chairman. The individual chairmen selected by the class officers have had equal responsibilities and were responsible to Miss Hawkins and Mr. Cleaver, adviser. The following committees vary somewhat from those originally announced. Every student named in this issue has been a regular worker.

Charles Laymon, with his committee of Lenward Calland, Eugene Baker, Dorothy Korn, Mary Prezbindowski and Jeannette Kellogg, designed and made all the posters. They designed all the animals and the vases.

Betty Payton, as chairman, and the following girls made and attached all the flowers and leaves: Sarah Stettler, Prom Queen; Dorothy Baumbaugh, Gladys Hunt, Lena Mae Stephens, Theodore Collias and Doris Horn.

Jeanette Kellogg and her committee of Jean Junk, Betty Ross, Lavelda Sieling, Helen Walda and Joe Faulkner made all the animals from the art committee's designs.

Almost three hundred stars were made by Melva O'Shaughnessy's committee, comprised of Dorothy Kosteek, Alberta Bultemeyer, Maurice Deatrick and Fred Wolf.

Bob Cunningham headed the construction gang. They supplied all the cutting of heavy cardboard forms, made the vases, constructed the theme, wired the gym, did all the painting and finally transplanted the trees. These were Leonard Fletter, Bob Hill, Ralph Walda, Fred Wolf, Earl Holman, Bill Bliss, Sid Stearns, Newell Cunningham, Bruce Emerson and Dick Koenig.

Social Committees

The social committee under Lois Brower's guidance had complete charge of the invitations, favors and entertainment of chaperones and guests. They also selected and decorated the favors for the dancers. Other members were Jeanne Patrick, Charles Rothschild, Byron Breininger, Eldon Baker and Martha Gause.

Mary Frances Lauer's committee, including Herbert Knothe, Charles Rothschild, Mary Wolf, and Agnes Yarnelle, had entire charge of planning and rehearsing the Prom Queen ceremony. They also decorated the throne.

Jane Abbott with the help of Rosemary Maze, Mary Lou Berkey, Sybelia Douglas, Genevieve Freigy and Irene Burton, made the program covers.

Publicity was handled by George Koorsen and Jeanne Patrick.

Robert Gross was assisted at the refreshment stand by Ralph Walda, Owen Neat, Frances Graft, Louella Mattes and Clarence Huxoll.

Donald Goodwin was assisted in the check room by Lavern Green, Bill Bauermeister and Boyce Foreman. General helpers were Bill McClure, Glen Fox and Jack Hostetter.

Robert Duell's ticket committee was Russel Buchan, Edwin Falk, Dick VanCamp, Leona Zweig, Mary Prezbindowski, Burdella Felts, Theodore Collias, Gladys Hunt and Herbert Knothe.

A small but very important committee was the lighting trio, Russell Buchan, Dick VanCamp, Fred Ahlersmeyer.

Maurice Deatrick served as chairman of decorations and worked on the committees. Raymond Heine, president, did likewise. Mr. Cleaver worked with the construction crew, and Miss Hawkins worked with the other committees.

DRAFTSMEN---CLASS OF 1940

By WANDA RACINE

The senior is praised, the junior is called down, even the freshman is razzed, but the sophomore is wholly ignored. Tired of this perennial condition, the sophomores are working hard, gathering honors and achieving fame so that the school will always remember the class of 1940.

The sophomores met and conquered their freshman year under the able leadership of Robert Bienz, president; Harold Masursky, vice-president; Dorothy Davies, secretary-treasurer; and Louise Jean, Wanda Racine, Betty Lou Stetter, Robert Nash, Billie Ann Deatrich, Eulalia Burmes, Betty James, Byron Doenges, Betty Lou Mentzer, Rosemary Edelon, Theodora Bakalar, and Jacqueline Ables, social council.

Under the advisorship of Miss Virginia Kinnaird and Mr. Robert Dornte, the class of '40 sponsored a party on February 15 to welcome the incoming freshmen. Games were played, some of the talented members of the class performed their arts, a new freshman song was introduced, and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to more than two hundred freshmen.

In the annual Freshman Extemporaneous Contest, the class of '40 was well represented by seven capable freshmen. Competing for the prizes were Robert Robertson, Betty Lou Stetter, Wanda Racine, Rose Hess, Julia Ann Cowan, Adele Johnson, and Paul Johns. The judges chose Rose Hess, whose topic of speech was "Improvements of the Community", as the winner.

Many students of the year '40 demonstrated their talents in the annual Vod-Vil. Julia Ann Cowan and Jean Lemert danced, Bill Latz performed in a humorous skit which took a prize and Jack Grenzenback was one member of a curtain act in which he took the part of a ventriloquist's dummy.

This year the sophomores wisely chose for their leaders Harold Masursky, president;

Byron Doenges, vice-president; Gloria Temple, secretary-treasurer; Jane Ullery, Julia Ann Cowan, Dorothy Davies, Robert Bienz, Marion Snider, and Dick Butler, social council. These in turn agreed upon Miss Virginia Kinnaird and Mr. Russell Earle as advisors.

A party sponsored by the sophomore class was held on January 14, at which all present danced, sang, and enjoyed the refreshments which were served.

The class of '40 has many brilliant students in its midst. Dorothy Davies, Jeanette Warner, Maxine Davis, Paul Gross, Viola Kaiser, Gloria Temple, Maxine Wass, Geraldine Miller, Allen Charleton, Julia Ann Cowan, Neva Nagel, Wanda Racine, Dorothy Bixby, Maxine Larimer, Dorothy Lord, Ponda Vlasheff, Lyle Clapahave, Norman Dunlap and Eugene Groman are a few of the industrious sophomores whose names appear on the honor roll very frequently.

Many of the '40 members have held important offices in some of the various clubs which Central offers to the students. Central Triangle Club has had Bernice Chilcote and Wanda Racine as presidents, Betty Ann Fix and Gloria Temple as vice-presidents, Ruth Cottingham as secretary and Jean Lemert and Virginia Hoffman as treasurer. Dick Butler, Robert Bienz and Byron Doenges have served the Torch Club as its officers. The Delvers have been led by such leaders as Viola Kaiser, and Mary Jane Masloob as presidents, Gloria Temple and Marilyn Heaston as vice-presidents, Neva Nagel and Ruth Duell secretaries and Norrene Kauffman and Viola Kaiser as treasurers.

Another activity in which many sophomores are interested is the journalistic field comprised of the Spotlight and Caldron staffs. On the Spotlight are Betty Miller and Byron Doenges, proofreaders and reporters; Julia Ann Cowan, Maxine Kuhl, Louise Jean and Norma Jean Kennedy, reporters; Wanda Racine, copyreader, headline and feature writer; Harold Masursky, layouts and reporter and Neva Nagel, bookkeeper. On the Caldron are Ida May Murray, Joe Davies, Ruth Cottingham, Wanda Racine, and Betty Miller.

The music department claims the attention of many sophomores, not only in the band and orchestra, but also in the glee club. Members of the band or orchestra who are sophomores are: Jane Ullery, Julia Ann Cowan, Dorothy Davies, Clarence Grush, Bill Hartmen, Geary Menze, Herbert Miller, Don Nahrwold, George Parker, David Poitras, Billy Roemen, Wayne Roy, Juanita Savio, Betty Stevens, Louis Pooler, Loretta Walchle, Pearl Waldron, Dorothy Toole, Morris Schafer, Viola Kaiser, Martha Exner, and James Beard.

The operetta given each year, to demonstrate what fine musical talent Central possesses, is often made up of members of the Glee Club. The class of '40 is proud to say that they have a number of students in this organization. These are: Bernice Chilcote, Maxine Davis, Rivah Hassen, Phyllis Shoemaker, Ruth Smith, Jean Arthur, Irene Ehrman, Evelyn Kattas, Dorothy Kentz, Eileen Lipp, Anita McCutcheon, Fern McKee, Betty Lou Mentzer, Ruth Miller, Florine Wilkens, Celeste Cappolino, Catherine Keller, Dorothy Neff, Mary Baeumler, Mary Jane Smith, Joel Borman, Arthur Boester, Franklin Boggs, George Jackson, Robert Mooney, Jacob Smith, Hugh Jackson, Delbert Tudor, Wilbur Philo, Tom Ryan, and Carl Kuzeff.

In the line of athletics there are many sophomores who shine from honors they have received. Many of the boys have already received their C sweaters for their outstanding work in sports. The football season brought out many members of the class of '40 each in hopes of making the first team. Those boys who stayed out for football the entire season are Ed Langas, Dick Tackett, Henry Kulesza, Fealing Talley, Eugene Mettler, Ted Lewandowski, Dale Thompson, Paul Johns, Henry Sandkuhler, Leonard Morris, Glen Billman, Warren Wickliffe, Art Boester, Orville Jones, Douglas Campbell, and Ed Teagarden.

But the boys are not the only ones who participated in the athletic field. The girls also work hard in hopes of winning an athletic letter. Some of these sport minded sophomore girls are Mary Winkler, Dorothy Bixby, Elizabeth Childrey, Maxine Davis, Dorothy Rocholl, Norene Kauffman, Virginia Houser, Eloise Conley, Maxine Moss, Dorothy Kroemer, Jeanette Danaher, Betty Stumpf, Maxine Larimer, Angeline Bibbo, Sarah Ludwig, Pearl Waldron, and Florine Wilkins.

The 1938 Senior-Caldron Vod-Vil brought out many pupils of the year '40, who demonstrated their talents on the Central stage. Jeanette Danaher entertained by giving a solo tap dance. Jean Lemert and Mary Catherine Hobbs gracefully did a toe dance. Kathryn Cremean was one part of a duet dance. A group of sophomores from the active home room 329 presented a comical pantomime. The members of this skit were Betty Holloway, Georgia Dennis, Maxine Davies, Cal Altekruse, and Franklin Lopshire. Ruth Cottingham sang a solo "The Indian Love Call", and also sang in a trio "Maytime". Clarence Taylor's colored act included such sophomores as Johndell Henderson, Christina Fitts, Vernon Medley, Beulah Irby, Mary Louise Green, and Marcela Lyons. Other sophomores who appeared in various parts of the Vod-Vil were Jack Grenzeback, Myrtle Jaggers, Wanda Racine and Doris Bolyer.

The sophomore skating party held at Bell's skating rink March 25, was very successful as more than 240 people attended. Several attendance prizes, consisting of boxes of candy, theatre tickets, and candy suckers for booby prizes were given away.

Harold Masursky was general chairman of the affair, Julianne Cowan was chairman of the committee who arranged the time and place of the party, and posters were furnished by members of the Art Club.

Chaperones were Miss Kinnaird and Mr. Fleck.

Most students realize that to be a successful speaker one must begin early. Consequently many sophomores entered the annual Sophomore Extemporaneous Speech Contest. After a series of contests in the English classes, twenty winners competed in the semi-finals, leaving nine sophomores for the final contest. These were Betty Lou Koenig, Julia Anne Cowan, Jean Lee, Wanda Racine, Gladys Chaney, Viola Kaiser, Julia Edwards, Louis Pooler and Louie Perlman.

Betty Lou Koenig and Louis Pooler succeeded in tying for first place; Julia Ann Cowan won second and Viola Kaiser and Jean Lee tied for third in the final contest held in the auditorium, April 20.

About ten sophomores made the semester honor roll. They were: Allen Charlton, Dorothy Davies, Paul Gross, Viola Kaiser, Harold Masursky, Louis Pieper, Gloria Belle Temple, Pondo Jack Vlasheff, Jeanette Warner, and Maxine Wass.

As Central is a technical school there are more boys than girls—the class of 1940 boasts 315 boys and 219 girls.

Miss Kinnaird and Mr. Earle, class advisers, have had much experience in leadership. Both are prominent in civic and professional organizations and take active parts in church work.

APPRENTICES---CLASS OF 1941

By BETTY PATTON

During the school year of 1937-38 approximately 800 freshmen entered Central High School. They have shown great enthusiasm and interest in their studies and extra-curricular activities of Central.

On February 7, the class met in Room 1 to organize. Clifford Simon, active in public speaking, was elected president. Arthur Lenz was chosen vice-president and Betty Patton, secretary-treasurer. The members of the social council are: Beatrice Mee, Marjorie Rohrbaugh, Suzanne Collias, David Skory, Evelyn Lhamon, Thomas Crosbie, and Delores Putt. The class officers selected Miss Eva McKinnie and Mr. Robert Dornte as class advisors.

A picnic for the entire class, to be held in Foster Park, was planned for late spring.

The members of the Freshman Debators Club, originated and coached by Mr. Russell Earle, are: Dorothy Strasburg, Clifford Simon, Marjorie Rohrbaugh, James Charleton, Mar-cella Bultemeier, Delores Putt, Mary Jane Long, Daniel Chadwick, Harold Brown, Janice Cottingham, Doris Rocholl, Duane Jones, and Rivah Hassan.

Boosters, a club into which the individual pupil must be elected, has two freshman members: Virginia Maloley and Betty Lou Koenig.

The Spotlight and Caldron Staffs, two of the largest organizations of Central, have many freshman members: Reba Stettler, Mavis Bloemker, Helen Adler, David Skory, Mary Baumbaugh, Doris Murphy, Thomas Crosbie, Clifford Simon, Suzanne Collias, Thomas Hirschy, Wilbur Philo, Ruth Saurer and Betty Patton are members of the Spotlight staff. Active home-room agents of the Caldron staff include: 109—Harry Meads, 110—Robert Bricker, 115—Donald Johnson, 225—Maxine Croaks, B-4—Betty Patton, 1-N—Jean Burtnett, 106—Elaine Mentzer, 1-S—Bernard Weaver, B-5—Bernice Ellis and Jack Sturm.

There are eighteen freshman rooms in Central High, each having about forty pupils.

Dick Miller, Fred Shaw, Roland Wickliffe, and Russell Wilkens, members of Central's Reserve basketball teams, show promise of becoming skilled players.

C.G.A.A. members include: Betty Matthews, Esther Saylor, Lois Radke, Nellie Kikly, Florence Stanizewski, Sophie Naumcheff, Lucia Reinhold, Rose James, Wanda Lipp, Alta Herman, Sarah Ludwig, Bernice Ellis and Marcella Brown.

Evelyn Lhamon, a prominent freshman, won ten dollars for her essay, "Helping the Blind," in a contest conducted by the Fort Wayne Community Chest.

A score of freshmen got off on the right foot by making the first semester honor roll. Clifford Simon led the group with four A's and one A plus. Others who made high grades were: Sylvia Anderson, Betty Bohde, Marcella Butlemeier, Mary Ellena Cox, Florence Deluga, Evelyn Faulkner, Delores Gebhard, Margaret Johnson, George Lambroff, Mary Jane Masloob, Marcelline Plescher, Maxine Relue, Florence Staniszewski, Dorothea Mae Work, Samuel Stuart, Helen May Baker, Ruth Clibon, and Duane Dale Jones.

Eight freshmen survived the English class contests to participate in the finals of the Extemporaneous Contest. The speakers were: Reba Stettler, Delores Putt, Dorothy Strasburg, Hobart Largin, Wilbur Baker, Jimmy Charlton, Julia Edwards, and Marjorie Rohrbaugh. Reba Stettler won first place; Delores Putt, second; Dorothy Strasburg and Hobart Largin tied for third place.

Many freshmen are active in the music department. Margaret Johnson, well known for her fine soprano voice, was a member of the girls' trio and sang in several programs. The girls' glee clubs include the following freshman members: Mavis Bloemker, Wilodean Brown, Jean Burtnett, Betty Berryman, Louise Boehm, Gladys Castor, Helen Coyle, Bernice Ellis, Betty Gordan, Doris Heese, Peggy Hanfield, Betty Johnson, Bernadette McAleese, Betty Orr, Betty Patton, Magdalen Rucoi, Eleanor Weist, Mary Baumbaugh, Marlowe Bruot, Florence Deluga, Anna Franklin, Ruby Garrett, Evelyn Gephart, Mary Ruth Green, Betty Healea, Leotas Hughes, Nellie Kikly, Dorothy Lallow, Delores Putt, Lois Radkey, Esther Saylor, Arline Schwartz, and Bernadette Shea.

Fewer freshman boys were attracted by music work. Those who were in glee clubs are: Harold Bear, Tom Harmon, Eugene Meier, Robert Mitehall, and Sam Voice. Some freshmen, too, displayed their varied talents in the annual Senior-Caldron Vodvil.

The Class of 1941 is an industrious group, supporting a wonderful school. Many of the students are outstanding in athletics, some in writing and speaking, others in studies and various club work.

For the enjoyment of the freshman class a picnic was held at Foster Park, after school, May 13.

Robert Dornte, was in charge of the games and such games as baseball for boys and girls, tennis, horseshoe and several other games were played. Arthur Lenz, Bill Bailey, John Holloway, Dick Derrickson, Chester Krasienko, Joan Dehler, Merle Harnishfeger, Betty Mathews, Eleanor Lutman, Esther Saylor, Beatrice Mee and Suzanne Collias were on the game committee, with Clifford Simon as chairman.

The picnic refreshments were in the form of a potluck. Each person brought one of the following things: Cookies, sandwiches, deviled eggs, potato chips, all kinds of salads, baked beans, fruits, cake, 25 cents for ice cream, paper plates, napkins, knives, forks or spoons.

Miss Eva McKinnie was in charge of the refreshments. Evelyn Lhamon was chairman, with Virginia Houser, Virginia Robinson, Jeanne Lee, Maryse Refner, John Colman, James Oberlin, Duane Koch and Glenn Watson as the committee.

Delores Putt and Betty Patton were co-chairmen of publicity in home rooms.

CENTRAL'S PEP-EM UPPERS

By DOROTHY BAUMBAUGH

Last quarter—one minute to go—score 28-28. Exciting moments! Whether it's on the chilly football field or crowded basketball floor, Central's able leaders, Jeff Michell, Byron Leeth, and Harry Prange, are there with the pep. The boys in their snappy blue and white uniforms will long stay in the memories of Central fans.

The man who for many years has trained Central boys to be champions, and who is the ideal of every boy who comes in contact with him is our coach, Murray Mendenhall. Assisting "Mendy" is Bob Dornte, a Central graduate, who was an all around athlete and blanket man under "Mendy's" direction.

NET FLASHES

By H. O'SHAUGHNESSEY

The 1937 Tennis campaign was indeed a successful one as the netters displayed sportsmanship combined with good ability to roll up a successful record.

Mr. Charles Turpin, tennis coach, scheduled matches with Decatur, Bluffton, Concordia College, Concordia High, North Side, South Side, and Central Catholic, and was deeply pleased when his hard-working fellows won half of their engagements.

The team was composed of James Koegel, Bill Weaver, Van Stover, Tom Heller, Bill Bauermeister, Irving Latz, Dean Reese, Jack Pio, and Kenneth Fletter. Of these only Latz and Koegel were graduated in 1937; consequently because of so many men returning to Central Mr. Turpin expects Central's 1938 Tennis team to be even more successful.

Cinder Flashes of '37

With such fine athletes as Lantz, Yarman, F. Celarek, Rousseff, Klug, Gaines, Charlton, Talley, Kulesza, Johns, Stanski and Dunlap leading the way the Central Tigers ended a mediocre track season.

Due to the fact that not one man on the squad possessed varsity experience the Bengals strove unsuccessfully for a winning campaign. Tony Stanski was the only consistent performer winning a brilliant half-mile in every meet.

The Tigers swamped the Garrett Railroaders in their initial game and then lost to Marion and Muncie on succeeding Saturdays. The Tigers placed third in the Annual N.E.I.C. meet, third in the City Meet and qualified Tony Stanski for the state tournament.

The '38 track campaign is expected to be somewhat of a success with Coach Mendenhall placing his hopes on the following performers: Yarman, Gaines, and Talley in the dashes, Hanley, Celarek, Lantz, and Kite in the longer and more gruelling runs with Kulesza, Kite, and others expected to take care of the field events.

THE GRIDIRON CALLS

Paced and led throughout the season by such fine men as Hanley, Celarek, Yarman, Gaines, Huth, Tyler, Richardson, Henderson, Jahn, Rice, Tally, Doelling, and others who filled in the gaps of graduation, the 1937 football campaign loomed on the athletic horizon as a successful beginning of a new year.

Faced with the loss of such fine men as Lloyd Altekruse, Tom Salmon, Paul Bengs, Mike Hanchar, Dan Bourne, Al Russell, Ed Miller, Jack Paul, Irving Latz, Emmet Bogdon, Morris Owens, Ray Brown, and Tony Stanski, Coaches Murray Mendenhall and Robert Dornte were confronted with a real problem in developing a squad capable of turning in another good record for the downtown school. However, the turn-out of over sixty boys for early practice brightened the athletic horizon a great deal as the Tigers turned in an unusually fine record.

In the first tilt Bluffton Tigers went down in defeat as a rejuvenated, scrappy band of Bengals crossed the payoff stripe twice in the initial period with Yarman and Jahn alternating carrying the ball. Yarman passed for extra point and the Tiger reserves played the remainder of the game holding the speedy Bluffton eleven in their own territory.

Elkhart's Blue Blazers outweighing, outclassing, and outspeeding, the Bengals won easily by an overwhelming score of 26 to 0. The Tigers battled throughout the game but the lack of weight was undoubtedly the deciding factor.

The fighting Irish of Central Catholic were favored by many to upset the "Battling Bengals" but with Yarman, Lantz, and Jahn lugging the pigskin the Tigers outpassed and outspeeded the C. C. eleven to emerge as victor with the score 21 to 6.

Decatur's Yellow Jackets were swamped by the Tigers by the score of 39 to 0. Hanley combined good passing with plunging to pace the Tigers' attack. Wickliffe, Teagarden, Lantz, Yarman, and Kulesza aided admirably. The Central line displayed much power as they continually smothered the running attack of the Yellow Jackets.

Favored by many to be State Champs the Redskins of North Side combined good defensive ability with excellent offensive power, to beat out the Tigers 27 to 13. The final score didn't mean much in this game as the Bengals virtually played even the Nulfmen. It was a bruising affair with no quarter given by either side and the Tigers paced by Bill Hanley and their small scrappy line put up an exhibition of gridiron technique. A moral victory indeed for the weight and experience was again the deciding factor.

Auburns' Red Devils found the running and ramming power of the Bengals too much for them as they went down in defeat to the tune of 25 to 6 in a hard fought game played at the northern city. Yarman, Shrimp, Jahn, Lantz, and Tally counted for the Bengals as the small Central line repulsed all attacks of the Auburn forwards.

Columbia City's much touted Eagles threw a scare into the Tiger camp when they scored the initial touchdown. However, the varsity coming into the tilt in the fourth quarter took things completely in control and paced by Lantz, Yarman, Hanley, and their small courageous line swamped the Eagles overwhelmingly to the tune of 24 to 13.

The Archers of South Side were very much surprised when a small speedster by the name of Ray Yarman ran their ends, passed their backfield dizzy, and played brilliantly on defense to aid in swamping the Kelly Klads by the score of 26 to 6.

"Battling Bengal Brothers," Joe and Frank Celarek stood out on the line to make the victory more decisive, Yarman's brilliant passing was the deciding factor in the fast and tough tilt and when he was taken out in the fourth quarter because of an injury, both cheering sections gave him a rousing, much deserved cheer.

Because of his fine efforts Ray Yarman was elected captain of the 1937 squad, and he and Frank Celarek were both placed on the official "All City Team" which was monopolized by North Side Redskins.

Winning six of eight tilts the Tigers showed great sportsmanship, fine spirit, and a willingness to work, all of which will never be forgotten by Fort Wayne followers. Seniors on the team include Yarman, Lantz, Huth, Joe and Frank Celarek, Jahn, Bohde, Langas, Storms, while the underclassmen who will bear the brunt of the attack next year are Ed Langas, Arnold, Lewandowski, Rice, Hanley, Gaines, Richardson, Doelling, Kaufman, Kulesza, and Talley.

TIGER COURT REVIEW

By SALEM SHAHEEN

Central's 1937-38 Basketball Season, although not so successful in regard to victory was one which will not soon be forgotten.

In their opening game on November 23, the Tigers traveled to Anderson where they lost the preliminary game. The Muncie Bearcats were their next foes and defeated our squad in a thrilling game, 31-29.

In a contest which resembled a football game, North Side's Rampaging Redskins edged a two-point victory over Central's Tigers by the score of 26-24. Led by Hanley and Frank Celarek, the Bengals showed decided improvement. The Cubs consoled us, however, by defeating the North Side Papooses, 32-25.

In their fourth game, the Bengals were repelled by the deadly sharpshooting of the Columbia City Eagles, 31-19. Then on December 19, the "Blue Boys" staved off a last-minute Kendallville rally and defeated the Comets, 33-31. Kulesza, Hanley, and Huth led the Bengals' first victory in five starts, scoring a large majority of the Tiger points. Adding to the victory was the Reserves' 28-24 win over the Comets' Seconds.

Central Catholic was Central's second city opponent and also the second victim of the Bengal five, score: 32-22. Not only the score, but their teamwork and scoring ability revealed the rapidly developing technique of the Tiger squad. Hopes were increasing. Most of our hopes faded, however, when we lost to Kokomo in the next game. The final score of 28-26 shows that our team was not easily subdued.

Travelling to Auburn during Christmas vacation, the Bengals lost to the Red Devils by a score of 28-22, despite the brilliant scoring of Kulesza. Hartford City was the next to oppose our "Battlin' Bengals" and after an overtime battle, fell before the Tigers, 37-33. Decatur and Bluffton also lost to Central by scores of 53-23 and 28-15 respectively.

Mendy, Bob, and the boys spent the next week preparing for the oncoming South Side game, which, despite the heroic efforts of our team, resulted in a most disappointing loss, 41-36. The following Huntington and Vincennes games were both happy and sad affairs. The Vikings bowed to Central, 30-37, but the "Alices of Old Vincennes" refused to bow and sent the Tiger Quintet off, losers of a 37-28 battle.

In the next city-series battle, North Side set the Tigers back by a 44-27 score. Central of South Bend followed suit in the next Bengal encounter and, with a 40-28 final count, added another loss to Central's total.

One more drop was added to the bitter cup of defeat in the following week, when South Side's Archers edged over a thrilling two-point victory, 30-28. Yarman and Shephard played an outstanding brand of ball for the Bengals in spite of the loss. The regular season was concluded with two losses at the hands of Elkhart, 37-15 and Marion, 23-18.

With the approach of the Sectional Tournament the Central student body became victory-conscious, and there was much talk of the probability of Central's repeating the surprising tournament showing of the 1936 team. Few of us saw the boys during that time, for they were preparing for the tough competition ahead. When it came time for the actual participation, our team was a rejuvenated band of "Battlin' Bengals." By subduing Woodburn on Friday morning and the New Haven Bulldogs that evening in grand manner, the Fighting Tigers earned a right to oppose North Side Saturday afternoon.

That afternoon the Central Quintet came out on the floor, with two defeats at the hands of the Redskins in mind, definitely resolved not to let history repeat itself. The convincing score of 43-30 shows that the Tigers were successful.

Hardly a true Centralite exists who doesn't know the results of that final game against the State Champions-to-be. How the Tigers, led by Frank Celarek and George Lantz fought with undying courage, but to no avail! Central lost that game 23-15. South Side's 8-point margin of victory seems very small when compared to what a great tribute the five performance of our boys was to Central School Spirit.

They've lost the battle,
All hopes are gone,
But their undying spirit
Still lives on!

INTRAMURAL

By SALEM SHAHEEN

The obvious aim of Intramural Sports at Central seems to be the development of good material for use on the varsity team. It may rightly be called a training camp. But what of all those students who are not selected to play on the varsity? That is the other aspect of Intramurals and the most important by far. These players who number about 200 receive the same value from their competition as the other more fortunate participants even though they don't make varsity positions. That is the real value of Intramural Sports, for they institute the principles of sportsmanship, co-operation and fair play in those players who would not be able to gain such qualities otherwise.

The first call for all persons interested in Intramural Basketball was issued by Bob Dornte on Monday, October 11. The same week thirteen teams registered and after a second call on October 27, this number was increased to thirty-two. That same week the first half got under way and, after six rounds of thrilling play, was climaxed by the eliminations on November 9 and 10. All of the thirty-two teams participated in these eliminations; sixteen in the Midget League and sixteen in the Senior League. As a result of these exciting contests, the Red Devils were crowned champions of the Senior League and the Blue Blazers topped the Midgets.

After conclusion of the second half, the Red Devils were able to repeat their fine performance in winning the All-Star Crown by defeating the Ohio's in the final game. In the Midget and Senior Leagues, however, two new champions were crowned, the Blue Aces and Blue Jays, respectively.

As a final topping to this successful season, a combination playoff tournament was held among all the teams regardless of league. This was the final act and a very thrilling one at that. The Red Devils entered competition as favorites, but they were surprisingly upset in the final game by the dark-horse Cream Puff team by the score of 32-19. In this last game Schrimp, Penkul, and Marquette were the outstanding players. So ended a favorable intramural season.

ATHLETIC FEMMES

By ADELMA MARTIN and ALICE MUDD

A shout, and the juniors had twenty-one points to finish the final game of the volleyball tournament. Every year the Central girls have tournaments in volleyball, speedball, and basketball. The seniors like to win, but this year the juniors were just too tough; they couldn't miss that ball. "Wait until the speedball tournament," was the phrase on every senior's lips after this disheartening beginning of the new year in sports.

Finally the speedball tournament was at hand. The winning game was to be decided by the game between the juniors and the seniors. This was one tournament that the seniors were determined to win. It was an exciting game. The seniors won and the juniors had a hard time trying to enjoy life for some time. Although the juniors had Billy Mae Tate and "Sis" Arnold, the two best and most skilled players in school, the seniors had Margaret Russell and Anne Tucker to back them up. This evened the score and now they began to hope for the basketball tournament. The class who beat this tournament would have a chance to have its numerals put on the Koerber cup.

But the upper classmen were too sure of themselves and the freshmen and sophomores almost showed them up. The sophomores, freshmen and juniors won two games apiece. For this reason these three teams had to play their games again. It was another close tournament, with the outcome based on the last game. If the freshmen lost, the sophomores would win the tournament, and if the sophomores lost, the juniors would win. A large crowd came to the game, each in high spirits for her class team. At the very last minute the sophomores won the game and the cup for this year.

Sore limbs and strained muscles ushered in the long-awaited, long-dreaded tumbling. In all corners of the gym, girls were standing on their heads or trying to, doing hand springs, and many other queer contortions of the body. To those who are a bit lax in their morning "daily dozen," this time is the worst in the entire gym routine. All types of builds come in for plenty of work in tumbling. The tall Amazonian girls with large muscles generally support the smaller girls in doing the stunts. Miss Adams tries her best to see how many different kinds of stunts she can find for her "tumblers" to do after school.

Immediately after tumbling, comes tap dancing. Nearly all the students really enjoy this phase of gym work. Miss Ingham cuts the most dashing figure as she takes her place before the class, in trim blue shorts and a white shirt. To the tune of "shuffle, slap, step," the girls go through their routines.

As spring advances, so does baseball. Many students who had been enjoying gym begin to groan and moan about going out into the fresh air. They do not seem to understand that fresh air is necessary for good health. Many students are sure that a "shiner" or broken bones will land them in the hospital or morgue just as pleasant weather is coming. Then just as all hope of enjoying life again is gone,

A Hard Earned "C"

One of the happiest events for any girl "out for sports" is the day when she receives her letter after having made 700 hard earned points. She has the chance to make these points by going out for volleyball, speedball, basketball, swimming, tumbling, tap and baseball. The highest honor to receive is a sweater with a "special C". This is given to three girls who have the highest number of points in their four years of sports.

For the first few days of the agility tests, nothing but moans can be heard. These gymnastics are really tests and show a girl's ability to be able to accomplish them; the accurate eye for the basketball free throws with five tries, traveling on rings, the stick tests, the baseball pitch and every sort of a test to be thought of. Every test that is completed the girl receives points and to get a passing grade, she must earn a definite number.

"It Really Limbers Them Up"

tennis starts. Although this is just a brief period of gym curriculum, it is one of the sports most enjoyed by everyone.

Late in April the girls give an exhibition, which includes all the different class activities. About four hundred girls take part in an evening program to which every girl and her parents look forward. The boys' gym is always the scene of this entertainment before a crowd of nearly a thousand people. The appearance of the 400 girls in their gym suits filling the floor in the grand march makes an effective opener. There are folk dances in bright colored costumes, tap dances in trim shorts or sports clothes, and dainty little girls in the natural dance number. Sports, games, and relays appeal to many and the tumblers have a most unique and interesting program, almost professional in their skill. One freshman, Betty Matthews, displayed wonderful form and talent by diving over 14 girls.

The last "get-to-gether" the girls have is the banquet held the latter part of May at the Y.W.C.A. where many former athletes and the present ones have a real discussion as to who was high point or best pitcher and which girl showed the best attitude. The officers comprised the committee for the banquet with Dorothy Hartman acting as chairman. The theme this year is personalities, with drawings for place cards illustrating the characters. The mothers of the girls who wish to come have been invited.

11 Pretty Girls

These small fairy-like girls danced with a grace and rhythm of movement which was perfected in their gymnasium classes. Their pastel colored sheer dresses with floating ruffles along with their circular formations resembled a flower. This unusual camera shot shows the flower effect as the gay nymphs danced, a circle within a circle. The beauty and spirit of freedom expressed in their dances gave an idea of the natural dancing that is popular on the stage today.

Another part of the annual girls' gym exhibition was the tumbling which always proves to be the most popular act. Here is shown a pinwheel pyramid. In the distance-diving in the 1938 exhibition, Betty Mathews sent thrills through the crowd when she dived over eleven girls to set a new record for this stunt. Handsprings, flips, headstands, and barrelrolls, feature the tumbling program.

SHARKS IN X, Y, Z!!!

By ANNE TUCKER

Another eventful year may be recorded for the oldest high school club in Fort Wayne, the Mathematics Club, founded in 1913 by D. W. Werremeyer.

At the first program of the year Miss Mary E. Gardner told of her trip to California and explained the mathematical construction of the San Francisco Bay Bridges.

In November, J. R. Jones demonstrated calculating machines, showing how simply difficult problems can be solved by addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division.

The December meeting, the 24th anniversary, the club celebrated with a huge birthday cake with 24 red candles. The long but interesting club history was reviewed by Marie Rittenhouse. She also exhibited the club's trophy, awarded each year to the student having the highest scholastic records in four years' study of mathematics. Two winners of the trophy, Felix Zweig and Robert Smith, have also won the Griffin Memorial Scholarship and are now attending Yale University.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

At a skating party in February students had a good time, "falls and all." In March, the principal speaker was Mr. Gerald Middaugh, president of the Math Club in 1924. Mr. Middaugh is a graduate of Purdue University and is now a civil engineer with the Western Gas Company. The annual picnic held in May at Foster Park was the crowning event of the year. A treasure hunt with directions in mathematical symbols, ball games, races, and contests filled the afternoon.

The officers for the first semester were president, Leroy Gerke; vice-president, Anne Tucker; secretary, Marie Franke; treasurer, Dick Koenig. For the second semester, president, Max Buckmaster; vice-president, Elda Mertz; secretary, Jean Bergquist; treasurer, Robert Duell. The club advisors are Mary E. Gardner, Marie Christman, Charles P. Turpin, and Alvaro Ferlini.

ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE

By BETTY HILLMAN

"All the world's a stage," said Jaques in "As You Like It," and the Student Players' Club has certainly proved that statement at Central. Amid the hub-bub of activities, this club of fifty students, has, under the capable direction of Miss Margery Suter, presented several stage successes. At the first meeting of the year, officers chosen were: Robert Kaag, president; Byron Leeth, vice-president; Betty Hillman, secretary-treasurer. Committees were chosen for first semester programs.

In October, the annual one-act plays were presented, a tragedy showing effects of unemployment, and a comedy, a conflict between a professor and his soul. In the tragedy, "Laid Off," roles were portrayed by Betty Fuller, Raymond Heine, Betty Hillman, Richard Butler, Leroy Gerke, Edwin Falk and others who made up the mob. Maurice Snyder, Jeff Michell, Ann Krugh, Byron Leeth, Robert Kaag, Mary Farrell, Marie Rittenhouse, and Marian Cabler appeared in "The Soul of the Professor."

At the November meeting, the committee Edwin Falk, chairman; Lois Brower, Mary Prezbindowski, and Tom DeHaven, discussed various phases of the drama. The December meeting was in form of a Christmas program planned by Betty Hillman, chairman; Betty Lyons, Lester Carey, Ralph Walda, and Martha Gause.

At mid-semester, 29 new members, initiated into the organization, presented a play, "Tuning In," at North Side High School. The winners for the best performances in this play were Mona Jane McClure, and Charles Laymon.

On February 1 at the annual pot-luck in the auditorium, officers for the spring semester were chosen, Byron Leeth, president; Betty Lyons, vice-president; Betty Fuller secretary-treasurer.

In the Christmas play, "Columbine Madonna" a play within a play, were Genevieve Freigy, Charles Laymon, Lester Carey, Geary Menze, and Sidney Sterns.

The meeting most enjoyed by the Student Players is undoubtedly the joint picnic of the clubs of N. S., S. S., and Central held in Franke Park the Friday after commencement. Here new members are initiated and Miss Suter awards the honorary plaque to the club which has had the best program throughout the year.

ALL ABOARD! VAGABOND SPECIAL

By BLANCHE CLINE

Our travelers see the wonders of Egypt, England and frozen Alaska, but strangely enough they seldom leave Room 337. Very few students have an opportunity to travel, so speakers and slides help to satisfy their thirst for travel. Many of them become inspired to travel and observe the world after they leave high school.

The Vagabond Club was organized in 1932 and under the careful advisory of Miss Smeltzly and Miss Thomas it has grown to be one of the most prominent clubs at Central. The officers chosen for the fall semester were Robert Cunningham, president; Genevieve Boerger, vice-president; Eleanor Hostler, secretary; and Blanche Cline, treasurer.

Each year a travel trophy is awarded to the person who writes the best account of his recent travels. Students do not necessarily have to travel a long way, but they must write an interesting article. Joyce Lord was presented with the trophy last year.

Many interesting programs have been presented this year. At the first meeting members related their summer experiences. Courtland Anderburg, an ex-Vagabond, sketched his Navy travels; Miss Thomas described her experiences in New York and Miss Smeltzly gave an interesting synopsis of her travels in China and Japan. Miss Rehorst of South Side High School talked of her experiences in Labrador at the October meeting. The members were conducted through the Fort Wayne Historical Museum by Mr. Cherry at the November meeting. Genevieve Boerger presented five books to the bookshelf at the potluck in December. Miss Smeltzly of South Side gave a very interesting lecture with the Christmas pictures that were shown. The annual skating party was held January 22 at Bell's Rink. The students always look forward to this event with great enthusiasm. Through our connection with the International Correspondence Group under the leadership of Mrs. Alice Wilson, we sent letters and pictures of Fort Wayne to the exhibit in Paris. Some of the members are corresponding regularly with boys or girls of foreign countries and many of their letters are read at the monthly meetings.

Each year at Thanksgiving a basket is given to some needy party. Each member brings a contribution of food which is not perishable. The basket was given to the Wheatley Social Center in 1937.

The elected officers for the spring semester were Burdella Felts, president; Marie Franke, vice-president; Helen Masloob, secretary, and Robert Immel, treasurer.

CENTRAL GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

By ADELMA MARTIN

September 30, 1937

Dear Diary:

We had our first meeting of the Central Girls' Athletic Association. Thirty of us went out to Foster Park in a truck for our fall wiener bake. We played a few games. Some of the girls waded across the river and, of course, one had to fall in, but everybody had a good time. Before we were allowed to eat, we had to hustle some wood for the fire. Besides wieners we had marshmallows, apples, and cookies. In our business meeting, which followed, we planned the year's program: a pep-session, a Christmas dance after a basketball game, a Christmas party, and our annual banquet.

A few of the 1937 class came to this meeting and enjoyed being with the crowd again.

November 28, 1937.

Our Halloween party was a grand success. The quaintest of costumes were worn by the members. The games were interesting and kept us busy until 5 o'clock.

December 22, 1937.

I have neglected you so I will tell you about our Christmas party. Santa Claus was too busy to come so we had to receive our gifts from the committee girls. We had a wonderful crowd and everyone had a good time, for the gym was decorated and the floor-show was a success.

January 21, 1938.

Yesterday we went to North Side for our annual play-day. The girls there were a lot of fun and they all worked together to make it a grand success. We played basketball, went swimming, and had relays. Then we had lunch in the cafeteria. Afterwards each school put on a little skit. I think that ours was the funniest as we gave an "Our Gang Comedy." Our next meeting will be unique as we are going to have Mr. Franke, a blind man, and his Seeing-Eye dog. Each member is allowed to bring a guest so we will have a large crowd. After his talk we will have refreshments.

April 25, 1938.

Our exhibition is going to be a grand success. The tickets are going fast. It is to be next Friday night in the Boys' Gym. There will be folk and tap dancing, tumbling, basketball and baseball, games and relays.

May 18, 1938.

Our banquet is May 23 this year and everyone is getting excited as the time approaches. It is to be held at Y.W.C.A. with many interesting and prominent people there. New officers will be announced and the winner of the Hardiek Trophy will be made known. This really is the nicest meeting of the year—one of the best banquets of the whole school. So we conclude the C.G.A.A. meetings for another year.

CAESAR'S DESCENDANTS---THE ARGONAUTS

The Argonauts of Central High School are not engaging in a quest for a golden fleece; instead they are searching for a better knowledge of Latin, the ancient classical language which lives forever. These modern Argonauts are members of the Latin Club at Central, who at each meeting have interesting talks, plays, or Latin games. Anyone who has had two years of Latin or is taking the subject now is invited to become a participant in these quests.

The three advisors who guide the Argonauts are the Misses Harrah, Lucasse, and McKinnie. Next in command are the club's officers; for the first semester first consul, Harold Patterson; second consul, Marie Franke, and quaestor-scriba, Dorothy Davies. For the second semester were: first consul, Marjorie Burns, second consul, Newell Cunningham; and quaestor-scriba, Betty Lou Koenig.

Among various programs presented, one of the most interesting and amusing was a play, "A Trip Through Roman History," given by Burdella Felts, Bill Latz, Betty Hillman, Fred Wolf, and Jim Bond. The members of the cast combined initiative with humor to produce a play which was thoroughly enjoyed. An informative talk about Octavius, better known as Augustus Caesar, the first Emperor of Rome, was given by Mr. Ashley, one of our history teachers. Other entertainments of song, dancing, and dialogues have been presented, and an original play, "The Life Tragedy of Romulus and Remus" was given. The characters were Bill Latz, Tom O'Rourke, Harold Masursky, Virginia Robinson, Byron Doenges, Harold Patterson, and Fred Wolf. The play humorously presented the life of Romulus and Remus from the time they were abandoned by their wicked uncle until Romulus killed his brother and named the city of the Seven Hills after himself. At another meeting picture slides concerning Roman life were shown by Charles Rothschild and Harold Masursky accompanied by Miss Harrah's explantions.

During March, twenty-six new members were acquired by means of a membership drive held in the form of a contest between the "Blues," headed by Marion Snider, and the "Whites," with Paul Gross as leader. The "Blues" won the contest, having gained twenty of the twenty-six new members. It was agreed that the losing side should hold a party with the winners as guests and Rivah Hassan, the individual winner, received a box of candy.

One of the outstanding social events of the club was a skating party midst thrills and spills held at Bell's rink on April 1, attended by many of the members and their friends.

AT THE TOP

By BURDELLA FELTS

It can be done!

Students can make high scholastic records if given enough incentive. The sixty students in the Honor Society have proved that it can be done, for each made the honor roll the previous semester with no mark lower than a B. These students are the backbone of Central's scholastic work. By constant application and study, they are able to remain where they are—at the top.

Election of officers was the main feature of the initial meeting of the society in October. The officers elected were: Salem Shaheen, president; Burdella Felts, vice-president; and Gloria Temple, secretary-treasurer. At this meeting, it was announced that the society would hereafter meet the second Wednesday of the month, instead of the first, as in previous years. Miss Mary Harrah and Mr. R. K. Butler again kindly consented to act as advisors to the organization.

At the second meeting in 1937, Mr. Coil of our English Department gave two excellent reading, "The List in Humors," and "Do They Miss Me at Home?" Mr. W. W. White, another member of our faculty, gave a chalk talk illustrating the curve of monotony, the curve of force, and the curve of beauty. At the close of his talk, with the request of the audience, he drew a landscape.

Lobbying in Indiana Legislature was discussed by Mr. Robert Wyatt, President of the Indiana Teachers' Federation.

A novel feature was the visit made by the club to the Federal Court, where the students were allowed to watch a trial in action. This was unusual because young people are not, as a rule, permitted to watch these proceedings.

At the beginning of the second semester, the officers turned over the helm to a new group of leaders. Mary Farrell assumed charge as president; Fred Wolf as vice-president, and Mary Masloob as secretary-treasurer.

Present members of the society have proved that it can be done. They move forward with the passing of time and leave their places in this honor group vacant for the future students who will also show it can be done.

"BUSY BEE BOOSTERS"

Since the aim of many ambitious Centralites is to make the Booster Club, the announcement of the selections for the coming year are eagerly awaited. So, in May of 1937, about sixty-five deserving Central students were chosen to make up the Booster Club for the next year. One or two students are chosen from each class and school organization. Artists, actors, honor-students, construction boys, and many others combine to make up this assorted, but well-organized group of Central Boosters. At the first meeting of the year, Bill Spackman was elected chairman, and he appointed Mary Farrell secretary.

In preparation for the football season, the Boosters really began to work. They made shakers, streamers, rosettes, and bows to decorate the fans, and streamers to festoon the goal posts. Proving themselves adept contortionists, they managed to sell candy, peanuts, taffy apples, and gum, even while cheering the team on to victory in both football and basketball.

At the annual banquet each member was required to give a speech and Marian Cabler, dressed as a seeress, drew numbers for the members' speeches, which were cut off when the chairman lowered a bright red flag. The annual Tiger mixer featured tiger-head ships sailing around a blue sea, an effective setting produced by the two chairmen, Catherine McKay and Herschel O'Shaughnessey, and their very capable committees.

At the Valentine pep session, Booster girls, dressed as farmers in bright red overalls, distributed to Mr. Dilts, business manager, coaches Mendenhall and Dornte, Mr. Croninger, principal, Miss Brigham, and Mr. Abbett, as well as to the boys on the basketball team, heart-shaped boxes of candy. April 2, the annual Tiger Hop with the theme of "Harbor Lights" was presented in the boys' gym, with Mary Hattersley as general chairman. The dance was featured by a lighthouse with a revolving beam against a background of city buildings. The members of our basketball teams were guests at the Hop. At this time, we are looking forward to a wonderful time at the annual all-day private picnic, held at one of our nearby lakes, with our advisor, Miss Mildred Brigham, in charge. We all look forward to a good sunburn and a cool swim to climax the Booster year.

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND . . . . . "

By MARGARET WEINTRITT

As personality is one aim of the Friendship Club of fifty junior and senior girls, Genevieve Boerger led an interesting discussion on "How to get along with people." The girls also profited from a helpful talk by Mr. Virts on "My Philosophy of Life."

This year the girls contributed money for the transportation of a cripple girl to the Y.W.C.A. so that she could take swimming lessons. At Thanksgiving they gave a large basket of food to a needy family. A ceremonial led by Ireta Exner was most appropriate for this Thanksgiving meeting.

THANKSGIVING PARTY

At Christmas the club bought toys and wearing apparel for a needy family. Christmas celebrations in other countries were shown by the committee in charge of that meeting. Sixteen girls, each dressed to represent a country in history, presented offerings typical of their countries. Members hemmed towels for the Needlework Guild, sometimes sewing fingers instead of towels.

Since girls are interested in clothes, Betty Davis put on a style show. The major social affair, a skating party, proved fun for all students and put money in the club treasury.

The officers were: V. Cleveland, B. Davis, president; G. Boerger, treasurer; E. Hostler, V. Cleveland, secretary; Betty Fuller, Ireta Exner, Helen Masloob, Norma Exner, Anne Tucker, Betty Davis, June Cox, Margaret Weintritt, Velma Koorsen, Phyllis Cramer, Marcella Smith, and Doris Doust served on the cabinet.

Cabinet meetings were held every other Tuesday with Miss Pence, our able advisor.

ONWARD AND UPWARD

By RUTH COTTINGHAM

The symbol of friendship is the Central Triangle Club, promoters of good will, good morals, and habits of helpfulness.

The outstanding features of the year 1937-38 were: The fashion show in which Wanda Racine, president, and the cabinet members participated, while Betty Mentzer, music chairman, supplied the music, with Ann Krugh as style commentator. At the Halloween party prizes for the prettiest and most grotesque costumes were given. Miss Jackson was a gypsy fortune teller. At initiation, every girl held a lighted candle in the dark room like a candle of knowledge in the black emptiness of ignorance. Next a personality play, "Right This Way Ladies," the actresses in which were M. Baumbaugh, D. Hesse, J. McHenry, J. Burtnett, B. Stetter, M. Mohr, and G. Temple, was given. December 16, at the annual Christmas Party, a program of dancing by J. Lemert, singing by M. Johnson and R. Cottingham, and acrobatics by G. Stahl were given. As usual Christmas Carols were sung and then refreshments, carrying out the red and green of Christmas, were served. Girls running about madly hunting, begging, and borrowing the things needed, typified the Scavenger hunt. There was a Valentine Party, and then came a potluck supper. In May the girls served a lovely tea at the Y.W.C.A. with their mothers as honor guests.

The Central Triangle Club also did many charitable deeds such as hemming squares for the Needlework Guild, giving Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to the needy, distributing flowers on May Day.

Each member of the cabinet was assigned to take care of one meeting and to choose her own committees.

Officers were W. Racine, president; B. Fix, vice-president; R. Cottingham, secretary; J. Lemert, treasurer, the first semester, and for second were: B. Chilcote, president; G. Temple, vice-president; V. Schnepp, secretary; V. Hoffman, treasurer.

The success of our activities has been possible by the guidance of Miss Jackson and Miss Austin.

THREE POINTS OF HONOR

By VERNON JAHN

"Hello, there Bill, don't forget Hi-Y tonight; I'll be looking for you at 7:30 sharp."

So it is every Monday night after school as a final round-up for one of the most popular clubs at Central.

Many prominent men have been included as speakers in the 1937-1938 year. Mr. Croninger told us boys how we can lead successful lives. Bruff Cleary previewed the World Series; another sportsman, John Levicki, new coach at Central Catholic High School, spoke on football and Knute Rockne, the famous Notre Dame mentor. John Hackett, sports announcer over WOWO and WGL, discussed broadcasting sports. Rev. W. N. Vincent, a former prison chaplin discussed prison life. Sergeant Dunifon of our City police department, speaking on safety, gave statistics on automobile accidents of the past year. Mr. Earle, one of Central's newer teachers, gave an inspirational talk on "sportsmanship."

The club held a wiener bake in October in Harry Prange's cottage fifteen miles north of Fort Wayne on the St. Joseph River. Dancing, hiking, and games followed the bake. After the bonfire the night before the South Side football game, the "Victory Hop" was presented in the girls' gym. A floor show, featuring acrobatic dancing by Mary Amber Wolf and Bernadette Shearer, and the new amplifier for dance music were the main attractions.

Before Christmas, a Boy and Girl party was held at the Y.M.C.A. The program was featured by Sid Stearns' magic. The girls excelled at pool, ping pong, and checkers.

The club basketball team played other teams of the city. During Christmas vacation the Central, North Side, and South Side Hi-Y clubs played in the basketball tournament at the Y.M.C.A., North Side winning.

As its purpose the Hi-Y has the idea to create, maintain, and extend high standards of character, promote clean sports, clean living and clean speech. Membership is open to all junior and senior boys. The club is under the sponsorship of Mr. Richardson. The first semester officers were president, Bill Spackman; vice-president, Dick Van Camp; secretary, Vernon Jahn; treasurer, Ray Stumpf; chaplain, Bob Immel; sergeant-at-arms, Walt Winters. Officers for the second semester are president, Herschel O'Shaughnessey; vice-president, Dick Van Camp; secretary, Frank Enderle; treasurer, George Reed; chaplain, Ed Falk; sergeant-at-arms, Bill Spackman.

FROM "FLAMING YOUTH" TO GLOWING CITIZENSHIP

By BYRON DOENGES

Central Torch Club, junior division of the Hi-Y, is a popular boys' club for freshmen and sophomores, having a membership of forty-three. The purpose of the club is to create, maintain, and extend to all boys an opportunity for clean sports and living, and for meeting leaders of our social, scientific, and industrial world.

Meetings are held every Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the "Y". Speakers, discussions, industrial hikes, and informal parties make up the programs.

Talks were given by a radio announcer, athletic trainer, lawyer, doctor, the desk sergeant of the Fort Wayne Police Department, and natives of China and Puerto Rico. Trips were taken through the General Electric and City Light Companies, Allen County Museum, Holsum Bakery Company, and the police and fire signal departments.

The Torch Club presented the school with two interesting programs in the auditorium, a community sing led by Mr. George Campbell, a noted song leader, and a demonstration of the lie-detector by Mr. Robert Borkenstein, a former Central graduate and now Indiana State Police Official. A successful skating party was given April 30 at Bell's rink.

The club was well represented in the Fourth Indiana Hi-Y District. Bob Bienz, president of the Torch Club, was elected second vice-president, and Byron Doenges, vice-president, was elected secretary-treasurer. A representative from the Torch Club will attend the National Hi-Y Congress to be held in Berea, Kentucky, June 25.

The officers of the club are R. Bienz, president; B. Doenges, vice-president; and T. Crosbie, secretary-treasurer. Last semester D. Butler was president while R. Bienz and H. Masursky were co-vice-presidents and J. McClure held the secretary-treasurer position. Mr. Maurice Ashley, history teacher, is adviser of the club.

LIBRARY SERVICE

OUR BOOK-WORMS ON DUTY

Seven forty-five a. m. and the doors of the busiest room in Central unlock to admit the ever-flowing stream of book lovers. Every nook and corner of the library is filled with inquiring figures nose-deep in printed pages. Eager helpers stand behind the wide semi-circle desk stamping outgoing books and stacking returned books. The clock on the wall registers 8:00 and every student hurriedly selects his book and takes his place in the line before Helen Ward or Delores Ferckel, who charge and stamp each book. Everett Ehle patiently stacks in definite piles according to the classification number the returned books that are properly stamped.

Library helpers are of invaluable service during all periods of the day. The first period Marjory Burns cards all fiction books and writes overdues. Betty Hillman takes attendance and finishes writing overdues. James Hirschy cards the books classified from 100 to 800, while Sidney Smith cards the history books. The boys arrange the books in their proper places on the library shelves.

Marjorie Miller, Margaret Weintritt, Virginia Hess, and Madelon Tracey serve as helpers the second, third, sixth, and seventh periods respectively.

After the seventh period the library resumes the bustle of the early morning. Every shelf is scanned by anxious eyes in an attempt to secure a book quickly and to be gone. Viola Kaiser, Gloria Temple, Helen Arnold, and Virginia Fultz take turns after school at the desk, stamping books and filing the day's circulation. Carl Browning stands at the door. James Walper cards books and straightens the shelves. At 4:00 the library day is over. The books are all snuggled neatly in their correct order. And from 4:00 p. m. until 7:45 a. m. Central's busiest room is stilled and empty.

The Library Service Group has for its motto, "That we may serve." From morning until evening of the school they are there to live up to their motto. But it does not mean all work and no play! Each semester Miss Beierlein entertains her group with two social meetings, last semester with a Hallowe-en party and a Christmas celebration, this, an Alphabet party and a Theatre party.

The officers for this year are Margaret Weintritt, president, and Marjorie Burns, secretary.

DELVERS IN OLD INDIANA

By IONA CARTER

In 1934, Mr. Richardson, realizing that too many Hoosiers knew too little about their own state, founded the Indiana Club which is now a member of the Indiana Historical Society.

The programs of the year were all based on interesting features of old and new Indiana. Mr. Ashley, a teacher at Central, gave a talk on "Early Life in Central Indiana," explaining the hard life the pioneers lived. Mr. Coil, also a teacher at Central, read several poems by James Whitcomb Riley, giving us his version of how Riley meant to have his poems interpreted. Mr. Richardson gave a talk on the Wabash-Erie Canal, telling how it was started at Toledo, Ohio, and coming down through Fort Wayne passed on to Huntington, down the Wabash to Evansville. Later this canal was abandoned because of the expense in operating. Charles Laymon, a member of the club, gave a talk on Lincoln's boyhood (he did spend it in Indiana, you know) and showed various pictures of Lincoln. Mr. Murphy, a teacher at South Side, gave a talk on Posey County, Mary Hattersley, discussing "Life of New Harmony" told how it came to be founded, how governed, and its importance today.

The social calendar of the year began in October with a wiener bake at Foster Park. On Indiana Day the club presented an appropriate program in the auditorium. Dr. Hamilton, of Indiana University, spoke on "The Development of Education in Indiana." In February the club inspected the Lincoln museum in the Lincoln National Life Building. This museum (founded in 1928 by Dr. L. A. Warren, national known figure of Lincoln), has more than 4000 books and pamphlets on Lincoln and books written in 23 different languages.

Formerly the club held its meetings monthly, but the study is so interesting that meetings are held twice a month.

Officers for the year are: president, Anita Leonard; vice-president, Robert Immel; secretary-treasurer, Glen Fox; program chairman, Charles Laymon; refreshment chairmen, Patsy Sheehan and Maxine Larimer; scrap-book editor, Iona Carter.

LITERARY-MINDED MAIDENS

By JEANNE FOX

Swept into the huge tide of enthusiasts for Margaret Mitchells' Pulitzer Prize winner "Gone With the Wind," Sorosis chose to climax their club year with a grand review of this popular novel. The book was purchased with the purpose of presenting it to the school library, after the completion of the project.

Keeping in mind the ultimate aim of the club: to give girls an insight into the best value of literature and to aid them in spending their leisure time in profitable and interesting ways, Sorosis' program for the first semester was carried out in play reviews, poetry reading, and as an interesting variation, a talk by Mr. Wyatt on Character and Personality.

Jean Bergquist led activities for the first semester, aided by Betty Hillman, vice-president; Jean Lorenz, secretary; and Betty Davis, treasurer. Officers for the second semester were president, Jeanne Fox; Jean Lorenz, vice-president; Marjorie Burns, secretary; and Jean Bergquist, treasurer.

As second semester activities got under way, it was the intention of the members to have a variety of programs in which each girl might participate. In order to deviate from the regular school routine of literary work, plans were made for unusual programs. A creative meeting was planned to stimulate the personal literary faculty of all members, who were urged to bring their own prosaic or poetical attempts to the meeting, in hopes of discovering something of interest for the "Youth's Passing Show" section of one of the local papers.

To show how colorful our own language might be, and to discourage the use of "trite phrases," a cliche meeting was planned, in which new and expressive word-groups were substituted for the worn out expressions in the average American's vocabulary.

A surprise meeting, a picnic, and the book-review were other pleasant features of the club. Miss Katherine Welch, who has been Sorosis adviser for several years, adds much enthusiasm and inspiration to this organization. Miss Welch has composed poems which have been published in literary magazines.

CANDID CAMERA CLICKERS

By THEODORA COLLIAS

At the art club meetings, held the third Monday of each month in Room 330, snapshots of students, scenery, and still life are taken and developed. Miss Nielsen discussed photography and displayed pictures at the March meeting.

The Christmas tree and the festooned stairways and halls were so popular last year that the art club again put up Christmas decorations. The Valentine Tea Dance coming on Bow Day is always a popular, colorful affair. A May picnic closes the year.

LOVERS OF BOOKS

By MARY PRZEBINDOWSKI

To belong to the Delvers' Club, a first or second year girl must have a B average in English. The activities of the club this year included a visit to the public library during Book Week, and a trip through WOWO and WGL. The most important social event is the Mother-Daughter tea held in May.

Officers were: presidents, V. Kaiser, M. Masloob; vice-presidents, G. Temple, M. Heaston; secretaries, N. Nagel, R. Duell; treasurers, N. Kaufman, V. Kaiser. Miss Ruth Brown is sponsor.

The fifteen members of the Archery Club meet every Tuesday at 3:20 at the electric shop to hold their business meeting before going to the Craig Biscuit Building to practice. In the first semester they had a match with North Side, winning by a score of 287 to 281.

In April they won from North Side by a score of 939 to 579. The best shooters are: John Shoemaker, Ray Lyle, Van Stover, and Christ Salomon.

THEY HIT THE BULL'S EYE

By BILL KEEVER

A little-known but enjoyable Central group is the Rifle Club under the direction of Mr. Veatch. The club was originally a boys' organization, but Dorothy Hartman and Phyllis Criswell have become two of the best marksmen of the fifty members.

To attain skill, matches are held with North Side, South Side, Elmhurst, and Arcola. Central defeated South Side 481 to 479, but were defeated by Elmhurst, 486 to 484.

Each year a county match is held in which the five best marksmen from each school participate. Bill Keever, "Lefty" Trumbower, "Freshy" Rumbaugh, "Dead Eye" Patterson, and "Daniel Boone" Criswell, represented Central.

"THEY SWING IT"

By CHARLES LAYMON

For the past two years, the Harmonica Band has been directed by Mr. Arnold, who accepted the advisorship when Mr. Michaud, founder and former director, left Central High School.

Popular organizations and clubs in the city have invited these boys to play for them at banquets, entertainments, meetings and various other forms of social gatherings. This year the band has played for "pep" sessions, the teachers' Christmas party, Foremen's Club, Churches, CCC Camps, Y.M.C.A., Lions Club, and Industrial Arts Club.

EUTERPEAN CHOIR

By PEGGY MEESE

The Euterpean Choir, an honor organization of selected voices from glee clubs directed by Mr. Bailhe, has given several school concerts. The major interest of the honor choir is the annual operetta in May. In this year's operetta, "The Ghost of Lollypop Bay", R. Cottingham, B. Hillman, J. Michell, F. Boggs, and T. De Haven have leads. The choir officers are president, G. Freigy; vice-president, R. Kite; secretary-treasurer, P. Meese; librarian, R. Cottingham; manager and publicity, B. Hillman.

George calls in the subscriptions

WE MADE THIS BOOK FOR YOU

By IRENE KROT and BURDELLA FELTS

Ho hum! Spring is here again and there's nothing ahead but drowsy days of sunshine. Well, to some spring may mean that, but to all those busy beings seated around a banquet table it means just this: Another year has passed, another Caldron has been finished, and still another Caldron is waiting for its empty leaves to be filled and bound.

Last spring as those Caldronites sat around that banquet table, each one heard his special duty for the year of 1938 announced. Each one grasped the realization of the part he was to play in the momentous wheel of school life, the Caldron. The task of turning the wheel was assigned to Ed O'Rourke and his many assistants. The wheel had to be started, so on October 26 the Caldron campaign was launched. Every senior in Central had his share of yellow cards to sell. Every pupil watched the Caldron thermometer rise from 100 to 200, 300, 400, 500, past the goal of 600 to the triumphant result of 872 subscriptions. Anne Tucker sold the highest total of individual subscriptions, 51 in number.

The subscriptions were sold; the book was ready for creation. Candid cameras popped up from everywhere, flashing surprise on faces at work or at play. Miss Nielson or Ed O'Rourke was always alert for realistic pictures of school life. Long hours after school were spent in the Caldron room perfecting the theme, selecting the paper, counting type, writing and rewriting stories, and planning social events. The Caldron booth, constructed by Mr. Welbaum, remains a symbol of Caldron industry. Busy faces ready to credit a payment were always behind the window. The booth, covered from top to bottom with students' names in their particular carving, remains a dedication to the life of Central.

Home room agents were cogs of the Cal-dron wheel. Each home room has its special representative who did his part to raise the thermometer of sales.

But the wheel needs oil and relaxation! Business must be combined with pleasure! The pleasures of the Caldron year floated by in quick succession. First came the Skating Party of January 14, after which muscles were sore for a week. More than one hungry Caldronite heaped his plate too high with potato salad, baked beans, and ice cream, at the several potlucks of the year, held in the cafeteria in the form of business meetings. Our editor, Ed O'Rourke, represented the Caldron at the National Scholastic Press Association Convention held in Des Moines this year.

February 18 and 19 the Senior-Caldron Vod-vil, the Parade of Nations, was presented. The Caldron staff shouldered the publicity affairs of the Vod-vil to help make it a great performance.

And still another convention! This one, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention in New York City, was a mammoth one with delegates from the entire country. Ed. O'Rourke, Jeanne Patrick, George Reed, Charles Rothschild, and Miss Ingham represented the Caldron. Mixed in with layouts of papers, prices, and reports of staffs were grand opera, musical comedies, murders, and the Statue of Liberty. New York was a marvelous city and was brought back to room 104 by the delegates for the rest of the Caldron staff.

Photographer Ed "pushes the button"

St. Patrick's day was celebrated here in Central by the Shamrock Shuffle sponsored by the Caldron. Irishmen (and all others too) "tripped the light fantastic toe" on Friday, March 18, in the girls' gym.

The wheel is turning slower, slower. The work is almost finished. The pictures have been taken, the stories have been copy-read, the book has been laid out and sent to print. The Caldron Annual will soon be filled with signatures of classmates and teachers. Again we view the familiar setting, the banquet table, with due credit given to Miss Ingham, our loyal advisor. It's spring again! The wheel has turned its last revolution. The 1938 Caldron in all its glory is finished.

PRESS AGENTS FOR CENTRAL

By BURDELLA FELTS

"A newspaper is nothing but a history book."

Believing this to be so, the members of the 1937-38 Spotlight staff determined to put out the best set of history books in the annals of the school.

Under the advisorship of Mr. Cleon L. Fleck, the work for the first semester was begun. The staff, consisting of approximately seventy-five members, was headed by Herschel O'Shaughnessey, Editor-in-Chief; Thelma Springer, Managing Editor; Jane Masursky and Leona Zweig, News Editors; Jean Bergquist and Irene Krot, Feature Editors; Salem Shaheen, Sports Editor, and Marie Franke, Head Copyreader. J. Porter Crosbie headed the Business Staff acting as Business Manager, and Charles Laymon acted as his assistant.

H. O'Shaughnessey and S. Shaheen

Salem Shaheen, acting as Editor, took over the reins for the second semester with Marie Franke as Managing Editor; Leona Zweig and Jane Masursky as News Editors; Irene Krot, Jean Bergquist, Feature Editors, and Shelby Board, George Koorsen, Sports Editors. Anna Louise Nordyke took charge as Business Manager, aided by the Advertising Board composed of Vernon Jahn, James Hirschy, David Skory and Theodora Collias, Secretary.

Since many students felt that credit was not always being given where credit was due in reference to work done on the Spotlight, a point system was installed. Under this new system a certain number of points are given for each column inch, each ad, and each minute spent in working on the paper. In this way everyone is sure to receive the credit due him, and it will be easy to ascertain to whom awards should be given.

The point system thus far has proved very

First class rating for the Spotlight was announced by the National Scholastic Press Association of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

A new position on the staff was the addition of three select writers, Jeanne Fox, Herschel O'Shaughnessey, and Burdella Felts. These students are expected to set the pace for excellence in writing.

Aiding the North Side and South Side staffs, the Spotlight staff furnished the material for five pages of the Tournament News, and was also in charge of the circulation. In addition to the Tournament News and the regular issues of the Spotlight, several six-page publications were issued, including the April Fool's edition. The Christmas Edition, an eight-page publication, added a touch of color to the files as the cover sheet was printed on green paper. Other special editions were the Easter edition and the Historical issue.

The social events of the year were a wiener roast at Foster Park last fall, a mid-semester party held in the Spotlight office, and a close-of-school picnic, also at Foster Park, held in June.. In addition, staff members attended the publications banquet at the Y. M. C. A. on May 19, at which time the adviser, Mr. Fleck, announced the new staff for the first semester of next year. This event concluded the work of the seniors for the year and served as a farewell party.

ROYAL ORDER OF KNIGHTS OF THE PRESS

Election into Quill and Scroll is the highest honor a person working on publications can receive. Only ten belong this year as the newly-organized Press Club for less-experienced journalists includes this group.

To be a member of this coveted organization one must be a junior or senior; in the upper third of his class; have done superior work in writing, editing or in business management; recommended by the advisor and be approved by the National Quill and Scroll.

Officers are Ed O'Rourke, president; George Reed, vice-president; and Thelma Springer, secretary-treasurer. Miss Ingham and Mr. Fleck are advisors.

HONOR WHERE HONOR IS DUE

By ANNA LOUISE NORDYKE

"What can you bring to the potluck? Can you bring potato salad?" are questions heard a few days before the first Wednesday of each month, for on this day, the newest honorary organization, the Press Club, meets with a potluck supper followed by a short program.

Since this club is a journalistic organization, at the February meeting the members heard Emery A. Applegate, Jr., a reporter for the News-Sentinel, speak on "Make the Newspaper Work Pay." In April, Mr. Dilts, our chemistry teacher, spoke on "Chemistry of Engraving."

Officers were V. Jahn and M. Franke, president; J. Bergquist and E. Mertz, vice-president; and A. Nordyke and I. Carter, secretary-treasurer.

STUDENTS CO-OPERATE

By MARIAN LINDEMAN

The Student Council, formed to help the members of the home room to keep in touch with our principal, Mr. Croninger, consists of one member elected each year from each home room. The members also present problems to the school, lead discussions as to their solution, and make announcements concerning school regulations.

Some of the problems discussed by these students include guidance, safety, hall order, assembly order, extra-curricular activities, subscription sales for school funds, fire drills, election of school subjects, boosting of the Spotlight and Caldron subscriptions, and working for proper school morale.

Many members plan home room programs on Monday mornings, and since each high school student must have a safety credit, council members conduct safety discussions each Wednesday in their respective home rooms.

Plans are underway for a strong Student Council next year, as an important wheel of Central's great industry.

DEBATERS

CENTRAL SPEAKS

By ANN KRUGH and ROBERT DUELL

Present members of the National Forensic League, which is a national organization for debaters, declaimers, orators, and discussionists, are Alta Mae Bolinger, Kenneth Castor, Lois Brower, Marcella Bultemeier, James Charlton, Robert Duell, Rivah Hassan, Raymond Heine, Jeanette Kellogg, Ann Krugh, Edward O'Rourke, Herschel O'Shaughnessey, Melva O'Shaughnessey Deloris Putt, Clifford Simon, David Skory, Miss Rosza O. Tonkel, Mr. Albert A. Coil, coach, and Mr. Russell H. Earle, coach. Honorary membership in the Central High School chapter has been granted to Mr. Robert S. Koerber, Sr., Mr. Fred H. Croninger.

The debate squad, Kenneth Castor, Raymond Heine, Robert Duell, Ann Krugh, Lois Brower, Robert Cunningham, Melva O'Shaughnessey, and David Skory, coached by Mr. Albert A. Coil, opened the 1937-38 season by winning an invitational tournament at North Side High School in which eighty-six teams from fifteen schools were entered. The subject debated throughout the season was—Resolved: That the several states should adopt a system of unicameral legislature. The outstanding achievement of the year was the Northeastern Indiana Debating League championship won by defeating Lafayette Central, Elmhurst, North Side, Huntington Township, Chester Township, and Columbia City. This was the fourth time in the seven years of Mr. Coil's coaching that Central has won this title.

The entire squad participated in two invitational debate tournaments held at Elkhart and Peru. In the state debate league contests, Central was eliminated in the district tournament, the first of four steps toward the state title. The N.F.L. Debate Tournament at Purdue University on March 17 and 18 closed the season. The affirmative debaters were Kenneth Castor and Raymond Heine; the negative debaters, Robert Duell and Ann Krugh. At a school assembly in March, Kenneth Castor and Raymond Heine were presented with debate sweaters, and an additional service stripe was added to the sweaters of Robert Duell and Ann Krugh.

The freshman debate squad was organized this year by Mr. Russell H. Earle for the purpose of training underclassmen for later service on varsity teams. Members of the 1937-38 squad were Deloris Putt, Jimmie Charlton, Clifford Simon, Doris Rochelle, Marcella Bultemeier, Wilbur Baker, Dorothy Strasburg, Rivah Hasson, and Neva Nagel. Deloris Putt and Jimmie Charlton, affirmative speakers, and Marcella Bultemeier and Clifford Simon, negative speakers, engaged in a debate on unicameral legislation over radio station WGL. Freshman teams also participated in invitational debate tournaments at Elkhart and Peru.

Herschel was named winner of the semi-annual Koerber-Kigar Extemporaneous Speaking Contest held last fall. Other contestants were Kenneth Castor, Robert Duell, Raymond Heine, Alta Mae Bolinger and LeRoy Gerke. The second semester contest was held in May.

O'Shaughnessey won the State Championship in original oratory at the N.F.L. Tournament at Purdue University. Central was well represented in the Indiana County Discussion Contest by Raymond Heine, and Kenneth Castor, varsity affirmative debaters.

Winners of the annual Reising Declamation Contest, held the last of March, are: first, O'Shaughnessey; second, Edward O'Rourke; third, Jeanette Kellogg. O'Shaughnessey's name is inscribed on the Reising Declamation Trophy, given by J. A. Reising, former Central instructor. Other entrants in the contest were Francis Bliss, Melva O'Shaughnessey, and Marjorie Rohrbaugh.

O'Rourke was named State Champion in Oratorial Declamation after his excellent speaking at Franklin College in March. O'Shaughnessey also ranked well in this contest.

Central was represented in the Logansport Declamation Contest by Alta Mae Bolinger, Jeanette Kellogg, O'Shaughnessey, and O'Rourke.

Central's representatives in the City Extemporaneous Contest, May 23, were Ann Krugh and Robert Duell.

BAND

By BETTY PAYTON

Central's band has grown considerably during the last few years, having only fifteen members about seven years ago; today it has fifty-five members. This organization contributes to all pep sessions and games. Dressed in attractive blue and white uniforms, the band creates much enthusiasm and color with their peppy marches.

The drum major, Berton Bolyard, has served honorably at this position of leading the band during the past two years. The band practices the fifth period every Tuesday and Friday in the auditorium.

This musical group has won honors in every contest in which they competed. The band was invited to accompany the basketball team to Huntington in January.

Under the direction of Mr. Bailhe, the band marches in many parades given by different organizations in the city. Their fine marching has won them many compliments and has given them a reputation of being the best marching band in the community.

The band also played for the fall festival under Mr. Simon's direction at North Side High School. Many members of our band played for the teachers' convention in November in a chosen massed band under the direction of Mr. Revelli of Michigan. At the district contest held in Goshen, Central's band won a baton for superior playing and marching form.

However, the band does not rely entirely upon music for their entertainment. In the fall they held a wiener-bake at Foster Park and later had a potluck in the school cafeteria.

ORCHESTRA

By BETTY PAYTON

Grown from only fourteen members in 1934 Central's orchestra now boasts fifty-five members with complete instrumentation. Any boy and girl may join this organization by taking two or three months individual training on whatever instrument they choose. If, at the end of this time, they show promise and aptitude they are given places in the orchestra where they acquire further experience in sight-reading and interpretation of music.

Under the able direction of Mr. Gaston Bailhe, this musical organization has won recognition in all parts of the state. They have competed in district, state, and national contests. Last year at Columbia City they won first division rating and then traveled to the state competition at LaPorte, placing in the second division there.

In November the orchestra presented an interesting concert for this school and in January was asked to give a program at South Side, which they did with great success.

The band practices the fifth period in the auditorium every Monday and Thursday, but students take individual training in Room 112 during their free period and after school. Boys usually play the brass instruments and drums, while the girls prefer the stringed instruments.

Leroy Gerke has served as assistant director and Betty Payton is the point recorder.

PARADE OF THE NATIONS

BY GENEVIEVE BOERGER

The lights dim, a buzzing auditorium stills, and the curtains part as a burst of song from full-throated young voices rings out. Nimble feet, sparkling eyes, soft melodious voices, jocular characters on the stage mean just one thing—"The Parade of the Nations" —the 1938 Senior-Caldron Vod-Vil.

Edward O'Rourke, editor of the Caldron, acted as master of ceremonies. Miss Rosza O. Tonkel, senior class advisor, assisted by Mrs. Germaine Rohyans Kumer, dancing instructor, and the Misses Leah Austin and Marian Ingham were in charge of the Vod-Vil. Mr. Robert Wyatt managed the sale of tickets, while the Caldron was responsible for the publicity.

Norma Exner and Mary Lou Irby at the piano, Martha Jeanne Exner, violinist, accompanied the program which follows:

I. Parade of the Nations—Boys' Chorus, Girl Soloists, Solo Dancers.

II. "Anything Can Happen" — Girls' Chorus.
Solo Dancers—Jeanette Danaher and Mary Catherine Hobbs.

III. (1) Curtain Act. Phoney Magicians—Sid Stearns, Edwin Falk.
(2) "We're Working Our Way Through College"—Boys' Chorus — Girls' Chorus—Martha Gause, Soloist; Jeanne Lemert, Dance Solo; Money Sisters, Dance Duet; Three Irresistible Maids—Musical Monologue—Betty Hillman, Doris Balser, Marian Armstrong.
(3) Curtain Act. Mexican Bull Fighter —Lois Brower, Lester Carey.
(4) "Indian Love Call—Vocal Solo—Ruth Cottingham.

IV. (1) Evening on the Range—Harmonica Band.
Boys' Chorus—"Gold Mine In the Sky."
Lariat Dancer and Singer—Harold Luley.
(2) In Old Virginny—Comedy—Betty Lyons and Byron Leeth — Boys' Chorus and Maurice Lee in "Old Black Joe."
(3) Curtain Act—Hollywood Impersonations by George Dean.
(4) "I Double Dare You"—Vocal Solo—Genevieve Freigy.

V. (1) College at the Cabin Door—Clarence Taylor's Colored Act.

VI. (1) Accordion Trio—Madelon Tracy, Marjorie Eckles, Eunice Turner.
(2) "I've a Strange New Rhythm in My Heart"—Girls' Chorus; Duet Dancers—Kathryn Cremean, May Ruth Vanselow.
(3) Vocal Solo—"Toujour L'Amour"—Margaret Johnson; Trio—"Maytime" —Genevieve Freigy, Margaret Johnson, Ruth Cottingham.

VII. (1) The Lamp Went Out—Humorous Pantomime. — The Three Twenty-Niners, Betty Holloway, Maxine Davis, Cal Altekruse, Franklin Lopshire, and Georgia Dennis.
(2) Seeing Double — Melodrama — Jeffrey Michell, Robert Kaag, Dick Van Camp, Robert Cunningham, Harry Prange, Alta Bolinger, Betty Fuller, Jeanne Davenport, Jeanne Fox.
(3) Curtain Act—Solo Dancer—Dick Derrickson.

VIII. (1) Rhythmic Acrobats—Mary Amber Wolff and Bernadette Shearer.
(2) Trio Dancers—Blanche Cline, Betty Payton, and Sarah Stettler.

Grand Finale

"Grand Old Flag" — Song — Boys' Chorus, Girls' Chorus, and Soloists.

Credit should be given to the stage crew, who helped make the Vod-Vil a finished production. The crew includes: Byron Leeth, Bob Kaag, Bob Hill, Dick Van Camp, Russell Miller, Ray Stumpf, Russell Buchan, and Bill Spackman.

HAIL, THE CONQUERING HEROES

"The tongue is mightier than the sword."

Although we would not wish to engage in argument with an accomplished duellist regarding the veracity of the above quotation, we feel somewhat safe in making said statement as we have two expert orators to prove our point.

Bringing home the laurels for Central are Herschel O'Shaughnessey and Ed O'Rourke. Early in the season Ed placed second in our Reising Declamation Contest; then carried our colors to the State Declamation Contest at Franklin and came home with first place honors. He placed second in the State Invitational Meet at Logansport.

Herschel made history at Logansport by taking two firsts: one for his Declamation work, and one for his Original Oratory. After placing first in the Reising Contest at Central, Herschel O'Shaughnessey competed in the city Declamation Contest sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, tying for first.

So that the talented freshmen and sophomore orators may have an opportunity to follow the well-known advice to "speak for themselves," the Freshman and Sophomore Extemporaneous Contests are held annually. The contests were started by Miss R. Tonkel approximately eight years ago. Since that time, they have been placed under the leadership of Mr. A. A. Coil and now Mr. R. Earle.

This year through a process of elimination, the number of students to enter the finals for competition for the cash awards was cut to seventeen: eight freshmen and nine sophomores. The successful freshmen were Clifford Simon, Delores Putt, Reba Stettler, Wilbur Baker, Marjorie Rohrbaugh, Hobart Largin, Dorothy Strasburg, and Jimmy Charlton. Reba Stettler was judged winner of first place, with Delores Putt placing second and Dorothy Strasburg and Hobart Largin tying for third.

There were nine sophomores in the final contest.

GOOD PRINTING FOR YOUR ANNUAL

THE high school or college annual which delights everyone when it comes out is always a well-printed book—for the printer can make or mar it. The finest and most original ideas depend upon expression in the form of good printing before the world can appreciate them. When you have selected a good creative printer, getting out an annual is a real pleasure—and you're always sure of success.

Our School Annual Department heads have had years of experience and can be of great help to you in building your book—from the first rough idea to the final bound volume. You may save costly mistakes by calling us early, while your plans are being made. Your inquiry will be welcome.
